Dear Dorothy,

I hadn't run off copies of your data before your letter arrived with the 4 corrections. I made them and ran off copies yesterday (Sunday)-- and will try to get them mailed today.

Since you also own GENEALOGIES OF VIRGINIA FAMILIES-- from the Virginia Magazine of History and Biography-- look in Vol. I, pp. 606 to 609-- BRUCE GENEALOGY: Mary Bruce married Thomas James and one of their daughters, Agatha James, married "a" RICHARD PRICE. Maybe he's the one from Northumberland Co., Va.? They had a son named ARJALON PRICE-- so Guy writes, and there is an AIJALON PRICE (Misspelled?) who had a daughter who married Nicholas Green on p.568 of Vol. III. These are bound to be the same GREENs who intermarried with the SHIRLEYs who went first to S. C. and then to Ky.

Evidently those are Guy's PRESLYs in Vol. IV, pp 871 to 886. (The article is a little messed up-- the printing got out of line, but if you read long enough, you'll find the rest of the fragmentary sentence!) And in Vol. V, p. 361 there is mention of WILLIAM MOULSON-- the son of ANNE SHIRLEY and RICHARD MOULSON of Christ's Church Parish, Middlesex Co., Va. He is mentioned in this SOUTHALL Deed in 1771, and Guy says WILLIAM MOULSON died in 1772, Amelia Co., Va. Wonder if he has "that" Will! (The SOUTHALLS also married into the CLAYs.) And speaking of CLAYs: the BIRD ROGERS on your Chart married a CLAY! I recognized the name, and will look up my CLAY data and send you the Marriage Record. Right Now!

Caswell Co., North Carolina Marriage Bonds:
"Sarah Clay married Byrd Rogers, 4 February, 1785"

She was the daughter of EDWARD CLAY and his wife, Magdaline Trabue-- and EDWARD CLAY was a brother of JOHN CLAY, the father of "Henry Clay, the Statesman". EDWARD CLAY and his family moved from Lunenburg Co., Va. to Caswell Co., N.C. ca 1777, and EDWARD CLAY was a member of the N.C. Legislature in 1778-79. They were "kin" to George Rogers Clark-- so they always claimed! (This isn't my direct line.) So, there's another blank you can fill in!

I will send excerpts from Va. Genealogies to Guy and Marion-+ Bettye Sp concerning RICHARD PRICE and WILLIAM MOULSON, the PRESLYs, etc. Might send it to James H. Young and some of the other "Kentucky Researchers" on the S.C./KY. SHIRLEYs, but it wouldn't interest some of the others. I haven't sent EVERYTHING to EVERYBODY-- mainly because some of them haven't even acknowledged receipt of ANYTHING!

I have sent the Letters and Data from members, but not all my research material to EVERYBODY. I will enclose a List of the data sent out to EVERYBODY. And if I don't hear from some of the other members by the first of the year, we'll just drop them from our List!

(I've never run off the Darlene Hunter research, etc. for that Dr. Henry Rothrock, yet. Will get busy and do that, one day soon, but 16 copies of everything takes time!) (Really 14?) (But if the members contribute, I'm happy! We'll just drop those who don't contribute!) (Only 10 have sent in letters, records or snap-shots-- so far.)

Do you have Swagar's Virginia Research Material? I could run off a copy for you, but I imagine he sent it to you long ago. Suppose he's still "at the lake"? I haven't heard from him since July! And have yet to hear from ELWOOD SHIRLEY,and JAMES H. YOUNG phones, but never has sent any material. (Wonder what the "H" is for?) Haven't heard from Richard Vogt, or Kenneth W. Shirley, and Conrad hasn't sent anything NEW in ages! These are all GOOD researchers! Wish they would "join the party" in ernest!

I like your "Charts"! I think they will be of great help to us in straightening out these SHIRLEYs! And your "paste-ups" are a good idea-- takes less space and paper!

I have been trying to compile a "Lineage" from all the material sent by the Commettie Members. Will mail out a copy for CORRECTION when I get it finished.

We have a good representation of the various SHIRLEY lines-- among out COMMITTEE MEMBERS-- if they all HELP-OUT! (Omiting the NEW ENGLAND SHIRLEYs and the "Sir Walter Shirley" Line.)

I have been trying to make the ELIZABETH SHIRLEY who married JOHN CARTER, the immigrant, a daughter of the THOMAS SHIRLEY who came over in "The Thomas and John", age 23, 1635, but since she was the WIDOW SHIRLEY, I like your suggestion better. She was the widow of THOMAS (1635) who had evidently died prior 1672, anyway-- as per the ESCHEATED LANDs he received from DANIEL TANNER. And since the lands escheated, there was no HEIR; therefore the son DANIEL SHIRLEY had died prior 1672, also? (Or just gave them up and moved elsewhere?) But I believe that the 1635 THOMAS had died and his widow, Elizabeth, went to Gloucester Co.-- maybe with some of her children? If so, DANIEL, her son, would have gone with her, if alive; he would have been about 14 years of age in 1668/9. (If born in 1653/4.) (I was making the "Tanner wife" a PHEBE-- simply because the THOMAS up in Northumberland Co. named a daughter "Phebe/ Phebus". But let's go with ELIZABETH for the time being!)(THAT'S the best "find", yet!)

Gotta get busy and put the "parcels" together for all the Members-- your material; so, will cease for now.

As Ever,

Ruth

P.S.: Am sending copies of this letter to Guy, Marian and Bettye Speed.

These three settlers, whatever may have been their mutual relationships, have this in common, namely, that all of them haled perhaps originally from Charles City county and afterwards from James City county, and that they all lived simultaneously in Amelia county during a considerable part of the interval 1755-1780 comprising a quarter of a century.

As far back as 1748, when William Southall was still a resident of James City county, he had purchased a little tract of land on Haw's Branch not more than about a mile or two from Colonel Thomas Tabb's home in Amelia county; which was enlarged by the purchase of a few additional acres in 1750. Meanwhile William Southall, his wife Martha and a large family of children continued to live in James City county until 1755, when he was the victim of a serious disaster which probably occurred in the early part of that year. One of his negro slaves ran amuck, set fire to his master's barn, and then hanged himself. The barn was burned to the ground with all its store of wheat, corn, tobacco, etc., as set forth in a petition for relief presented to the House of Burgesses (entered on the Journal under date 5 May 1755), wherein William Southall declares that in consequence of this crime he and his family had been left destitute. Those were not the days of the New Deal and William Southall's petition was denied. It may be conjectured that it was owing to this plight that William Southall moved to the little place he had bought some years before on Haw's Branch in Amelia county and got employment there in 1755 as Colonel Tabb's clerk or store-keeper. At any rate, it was this William Southall of Amelia county, and not William Southall^2, to whom Colonel Tabb left a legacy of £10 when he made his will long afterwards in 1769 (Wm. & M. C. Q., VII, 50; Va. M. H. & B., XLV, 281).*

More than fifteen years after William Southall came to Amelia county to live he purchased (1771) from John Tabb another tract of land adjoining the land of William Moulson who likewise lived on Haw's Branch not far from "where the said William Southall now lives" (as stated in Moulson's will made in 1775). One of William Southall's daughters married John Watson; and another daughter married Drury Hutcheson (or Hutchinson), as we know from a deed made in 1773 in which her father gave his son-in-law some negro slaves in token of affection.

Besides William Southall there also lived in Amelia county at the same time two adults named James Southall and John Southall, who, like William, came originally from Charles City county and later from James City county, as has been stated already. The first time we hear of these twain is in an Amelia county record of 1750 which is the notice of a suit brought against John and James Southall of Charles City county by Benjamin Dancy as executor of Philip Edlow. In connection with the Southalls of Charles City county, especially with Holman

Introduction

By

Ruth Clay Burrell

According to the DOOMSDAY BOOK, the name "Shirley" was taken by its first bearers from the parishes of that name in the counties of Derby and Gants, because of their residence in those places at the adoption of surnames. It was first used with the prefix "de", meaning "of", and appears in ancient English and early American records in the various spellings of "Shurley", "Schurley", "Sharley", "Sherley", "Shirley"-- and others, of which the form last mentioned is that most generally used today.

Families of this name were later resident in the counties of Warwick, Leicester, Sussex, Lincoln, Stafford and London, and were also resident in the county of Monaghan, Ireland. For the most part they were of the landed gentry and nobility of both England and Ireland.

The progenitor of the SHIRLEY family was Sewallis ("Sassulo" in Anglo-Saxon), who was living at "Ethindon", county Warwick, in 1066 when "William the Conqueror" subdued the "Isle of Briton". He was said to be of Saxon ancestry, and was a rich and powerful lord, holding lands at "Ethindon" (Ettington) in Warwick, "Tiscemerse" (Tichmarsh) in Northants, "Witence" in Lincoln, and at "Hoga" (Hoon), "Hatun" (Hatton), "Etewille" (Etwell), and "Sherley" in Derby.

Descendants of Sewallis have owned "Ettington", county Warwick, for over 900 years, and in the old Shirley Manor House, the third to be built on this land, there is -- over the great mantle-- the Shirley Coat-of-Arms, above which is the following inscription:

"These be the Pales of Black and Gold,
The which Sewallis bore of old,
And this the Coat which his true heirs
The ancient House of Shirley bears."

The ancient Arms of "Sir Sewallis de Ethindon" were "Sum acutum de auro et nigro senis dectifus palatum". (Paly of six, or and sable.) The Arms of the present thirteenth "Earl Ferrers", Sir Robert Washington Shirley, are "Paly of six, or and azure, a quarter ermine". (He quarters his Arms with France, being a descendant of the Royal Families of both England and France.)

Throughout the centuries the SHIRLEYs of England have married and intermarried with "the best families". Their lineage record (as found in STEMMATA SHIRLEIANA: ANNALS OF THE SHIRLEY FAMILY, by Evelyn Philip Shirley, 1873, London; BURK'S PEERAGE AND BARONTAGE, etc.) is so regal and bewildering that one tends to stop short before "presuming a relationship". Although proof of such a relationship is yet to be found among many SHIRLEY lines in America, there are

From Ruth Burrel's Introduction to Shirleys

The well known- SHIRLEY PLANTATION -of Virginia is located on this original grant to Lord de la Warr. The West family later sold the land to Edward Hill and it remained in the Hill family until the third Edward Hill gave it to his daughter, Elizabeth, as a wedding gift. Elizabeth Hill married John Carter, son of "King" Carter, and "The Shirley Plantation" has remained in the CARTER FAMILY since 1723. (Ref: Brochure of THE SHIRLEY PLANTATION.)

There were several SHIRLEY immigrants who came to Virginia in the next few decades, and we have tentatively traced "our" Lineage to one of them. He was:

> "THOMAS SHIRLEY, age 23, arrived on "The Thomas and John", June 6, 1635, Richard Lambard, Master, from Gravesend, Eng.; examined by the Minister de Gravesend concerning their conformitie to the orders and discipline of the Church of England: and tooke the oath of Allegeance." (Ref: "The Original Lists of Persons of Quality", by John Camden Hotten, p. 84.)

"Our" SHIRLEYs, according to TRADITIONS handed down among the various branches, are descendants of the SHIRLEYs of Sussex Co., England. Two outstanding TRADITIONS exist:

TRADITION NUMBER ONE: "We are descendants of SIR THOMAS SHIRLEY of "Wiston" in Sussex,--and are descendants of Royalty." (There were several SIR THOMAS SHIRLEY/SHERLEYs, but the ones in SUSSEX COUNTY weren't noted for any ROYAL BLOOD! They were illustrious, prestigeous, and notorious, but not of the Nobility!) (Ref: STEMMATTA SHIRLEIANA: ANNALS OF THE SHIRLEY FAMILY, by Evelyn Philip Shirley, 1873, London.)

TRADITION NUMBER TWO: "We are descendants of the SUSSEX SHIRLEYs, and are "related" to the SHIRLEYs for whom the SHIRLEY PLANTATION in Virginia was named."

TRADITION NUMBER TWO is the most predominant, but both TRADITIONS have one thing in common-- they both mention Sussex County, England, and since family stories and TRADITIONS hit the truth more often than not, I have continued to research the SHIRLEY/SHERLEY families of Sussex. So, for TRADITION NUMBER ONE:

RALPH SHIRLEY (XII in "The Lineage of the Shirleys of England", Appendix No. I) was the progenitor of the SUSSEX SHIRLEYs. He had two sons: Sir Richard Shirley (the eldest and the heir), and Thomas Shirley. Thomas Shirley became the ancestor of the SHIRLEYs at West Gainstead in Sussex. He had two sons: Francis and William. This line continues through the son, Thomas, and seems to play out with all daughters. (See Chart in Appendix No. I.) William would be our only hope, there.

SIR RICHARD SHIRLEY (XIII) had three sons: Sir William, the eldest, and the heir, b. 1498; Thomas, b. ca 1502, and Edward, b. ca 1504-- who was still living when William wrote his Will in 1551.

SIR WILLIAM SHIRLEY (XIV) married late in life and had two sons and a daughter. The sons were: Sir Thomas Shirley (who became known as "Sir Thomas Sherley, the Elder"), and Anthony Shirley, who became the ancestor of the SHIRLEYs at Preston, Sussex Co., England.

SIR THOMAS SHIRLEY (XV) was born May 9, 1542 and married Anne Kempe. They were the parents of the famous SHERLEY BROTHERS, and of Cecelia (Also, Cicely) Shirley who married Sir Thomas West, the first Royal Governor of Jamestown.

Sir Thomas Shirley (The Elder) fell into the displeasure of Queen Elizabeth (I) and became indebted to the Crown. His Ex-reigns of James I. and the two Charleses, of which Sussex can boast of some good examples. Over the projecting entrance is the date 1600, with the initials T.G. Connecting these letters and this date with documents referring to the possessors of the property thereabouts at that period, we find that they are the initials of Thomas Godman, who owned the estate at that time, and by whom the house was doubtless built; or, at least, the front of it, the back, or timber-framed part, being of a more ancient date. He appears to have been connected with the family of Godman, resident at Hempstead, in Framfield; but in what way I have been unable to ascertain. The house is devoid of external and internal ornamentation; except that Horsfield, in his history of Sussex, mentions that in one of the windows of this house are the following arms in stained glass:—Sa: a Lion rampant, Ar. crowned Or. Gu: three Lions rampant, guardant, Or; beneath which is HENRICUS II. (?) Paly of six, Or and Az.; a canton Ermine; beneath which is Shirley of Sussex. Ermine three long bows, Gu. stringed Ar. But this heraldry is obviously erroneous.

That there was a residence here previous to the erection of the present house, indeed at a very early period, is shown by the possessors of the Manor at that time, taking the territorial designation of "de Otehall" from it. A family so called were living here as early as the 14th of Edward III. (1341); John de Otehall being mentioned in the Nona Return of that year, as one of the four Jurors examined at Lewes upon the value of the articles of agricultural produce in the parish of Ditchling, of which Wivelsfield was then a Chapel of Ease only, included in that return. Different members of this family appear to have been the Lords of this Manor, until the reign of Richard II.; in the second year of which (1379) Richard Kentish is stated to have been the proprietor; and in this family it seems to have continued until some time during the reign of Henry VI., when John Atteze is stated to have been the Lord. From this family it passed into the hands of John Michelbourne, of Westmeston; whose son Edward resided at Hammond's Place, St. John's Common, in Clayton.. Of John Michelbourne it was purchased by Edward Godman, at whose death it went to his only son John; and at his decease, to William Shirley, who had married his daughter and heiress Elizabeth.

This William Shirley was of the Preston Place branch of this illustrious family. Of the Shirleys of Wiston, Mr. M. A. Lower has given us a history in Volume V., p. 10, of our Archæological Collections. From this we learn that William Shirley, Esq., succeeded to Wiston at the death of his father, Sir Richard, in 1540; and that by his wife Mary, who was the daughter of Thomas Isley, Esq., of Sundridge, in Kent, he had two sons and one daughter. Of the two sons, Anthony, the younger, settled at Preston, near Brighton; an estate which he obtained through the interest of his mother, who, though she had married again, her second husband being Richard Elrington, Esq., by whom she had children, is said "to have remitted no care to her first progeny." He married Barbara, the daughter of Sir Thomas Walsingham, of Scanbury, co. Kent; and by her, had a large family. He died in 1624, and was buried in Preston Church.

The Rev. Charles Townsend, speaking in an article in the British Magazine, of Preston Church, and the tomb there erected to the memory of this Anthony Shirley, says:—"On the northern side of the chancel, within the altar rails, stands the tomb of one of the Shirley family, the possessor of this"—the Preston Place—"property, in the age of Elizabeth; and the more ancient possessors of other and more ample domains in another part of this county"—Wiston. "The tomb is that of the uncle of the Three Travellers, where, in the centre of six quarterfoils, are the shields of the family, and its alliances. The monument is simple and elegant in its construction; and it is impossible to see it, as it is placed in the church, without feeling it to be a symbol of gentility and noble bearing. The inscription on this tomb is as follows:—'Here lieth the body of Anthony Shirley, second sonne to William Shirley, Esq., of Wiston, who died the Seventh day of December, 1624.' And on a slab:—'Here lieth buried the body of Elizabeth, the daughter of Sir Richard Shirley, Baronett, who departed this life the 23rd day of April, Anno Domini, 1684.' She died in her infancy, having been baptised the 22nd, and buried the 26th of April. On another tomb is as follows:—‘Barbara, the wife of Anthony Shirley, daughter of Sir Thomas Walsingham, Knight, of Scanbury, in Kent, who died the 2nd January, 1623.’ On the wall, over the tomb of Anthony Shirley, were, until within a few years back, when they were defaced by whitewash, the effigies of a gentleman and lady, kneeling at a desk. Beneath them were seven boys and five girls, having their Christian names over them. These names show that the two figures at the desk were intended to represent Anthony Shirley and his wife, and their family of twelve children.” In this, however, Mr. Evelyn Philip Shirley, the learned historian of the Shirley family, considers Mr. Townsend to be mistaken. For speaking, in his Stemmata Shirleiana, of Preston and this ancient tomb, he says:—“Preston Church is a small, unpretending building, containing the curious altar-tomb of Edward Elrington, Esq., the youngest son of Sir John Elrington, of Hoggaston, Middlesex, Knight; whose son Richard, by Beatrix, the third daughter of Sir Rauff Shirley, of Wiston, bequeathed his freehold in Preston, to Marie his wife, whose first husband was William Shirley, Esq. It is to her that Sir Richard Shirley alludes, when he says that the Manor of Preston “came to Anthony Shirley”—her second son by her first husband, by the gift and procurement of his mother,—she being “unwilling to alienate it from the ancient and renowned family of Shirly.” She is mentioned in the will of Sir Rauff Shirley, of Wiston, as one of his daughters. “Item: I bequeathe to my daughters, Johanne, the wife of Sir William Dautrey, of Moor, in Petworth; Elizabeth, the wife of John Lee, Esq., of Lee, in Fittleworth; Beatrix Elrington; and Isabel, the wife of John Dawtrey, of Southampton, Esqre.; everye of them XXs., or the value thereof.” Mrs. Mary Elrington, the wife of Richard Elrington, Esq., was buried in the south chancel of Wiston Church, July 2nd 1596, (see Wiston Registers), where her two husbands had been previously interred. They all were deposited under the same altar-tomb, which is now destroyed. On it were their Arms, and an inscription to the memory of each. That to the second husband was—“Here lyeth Richard Elrington; who deceased the 9th of February, 1569.” Sir Richard Shirley, the first husband, died “the 19th day of May, 1551, and in the 5th year of King Edw. VI.”

The Altar Tomb, then, standing within the communion rails on the north side of the chancel of Preston Church, which Mr. Townsend attributes to Anthony Shirley, is that of Edward Elrington; and the old tomb, defaced by whitewash, in the wall above it, is that of Anthony Shirley; his children exactly corresponding with the number of boys and girls represented upon it. Anthony's elder brother William was knighted by Queen Elizabeth, at Rye, upon the occasion of her visit to that ancient Cinque-Port; and he is supposed to have built the present Wiston House.

For the purpose of rectifying Mr. Townsend's mistake, I have entered more fully into the history of the Preston branch of the Shirleys than was needful, to shew that the Otehall Shirleys were descended from them. In what way the two branches were connected, I shall now proceed to point out:—

Thomas Shirley, of Preston, the grandson of Anthony, the first possessor of that family, married Elizabeth, the daughter of Drew Stapley, of London; and by her had six sons and six daughters. Of the sons, Anthony, the eldest, also of Preston, was created a Baronet in 1654. He appears to have taken an active part in public affairs during the usurpation, and to have been by no means a loyal subject. His father's connection, by marriage with the Stapley family might have been the cause of this. In the Thurloe State papers, Volume iv., pp. 161 to 190, there are frequent allusions to him; and a letter is given from Major-General Goffe to Secretary Thurloè, and dated Lewes, November 7th, 1655; in which he says:—“I have putt in among the Commissioners for the execution of the Orders of his Highness, and the Councell, for the preservation of the Peace of the Commonwealth, Mr. Anthony Shirley, who I heer is a very honest man. If his relationship to Sir Richard Onslow”—he married his daughter Anne—“doe not hinder his acting, he may be useful. I intend to waight upon him to-morrow.” And in another letter to the same Secretary, the general says:—“If the Commission of the Peace be yet unfinished, I desire that there may be added Mr. Anthony Shirley.” His grandfather's second wife was Grace, daughter of Anthony Stapley, of Framfield. The Baronetcy became extinct in 1705, by the death of Sir Anthony's grandson, Richard Shirley, unmarried.

William, the fourth son of Thomas Shirley, married . . . . . . the daughter of . . . . Oglander; and from him are descended the Shirleys of Otehall. William, their only son, was a merchant of the City of London, and became possessed of the Otehall estate, by marriage with the only daughter and heiress of John Godman, as I have already stated. This William Shirley died at Clapham in 1701. In his will, which is dated March 15th, 1699, and was proved in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, July 16th, 1701, he mentions his wife Elizabeth; his father-in-law, John Godman; his sister Elizabeth, the wife of Robert Needman, Esq., who is elsewhere described as of the island of Jamaica; and his uncle Drew Shirley, who was the ancestor of the Shirleys, of Shirley's, in Chiddingly. His son William, who was born in 1694, succeeded to his mother's estate, in Sussex, and resided at Otehall. He received his academic education at Cambridge, and was designed for the bar; but his superior talents and address bringing him under the notice of Sir Robert Walpole during his administration, the Duke of Newcastle appointed him, in 1741, Captain and Governor-in-Chief of the Province of Massachuset's Bay, in New England; and it was under his direction and immediate inspection that the expedition to Cape Breton in 1745 was fitted out. In 1750 (January 19th) he was appointed one of His Majesty's Commissioners, at Paris, for settling the limits of Nova Scotia, and other controverted rights in America. In 1755, he obtained the rank of General and Commander-in-Chief of His Majesty's forces in North America; and in 1759 he was made a Lieutenant-General in His Majesty's army. It was during the time that Lieutenant-General Shirley had the principal command of the Land Forces there in that same year, and in the early part of the following year, that some of the misfortunes which afterwards ensued to His Majesty's service, but more particularly the loss of Fort Oswego, which he had built at the mouth of the Onondaga River, on Lake Ontario, were, at the time, unjustly attributed to him and his mismanagement; and from which his conduct, on this occasion, was most triumphantly vindicated in a pamphlet, published in 1758, entitled "The conduct of Major-General Shirley, late General and Commander-in-Chief of His Majesty's Forces in North America, briefly stated." On the 16th of November, 1758, he received the appointment of Captain-General and Governor-in-Chief of the Bahama Islands. While at Boston, General Shirley built a house for himself, with bricks imported from England, at a vast expense, which he afterwards covered, both within and without, with boards. The house, which still remains, is called Shirley House.

The General died at Boston, March 24th, his age at the time being 77 years;—and he was interred in the King's Chapel, adjoining that city. This Chapel was the first Protestant Episcopal place of worship built in America; and when it became necessary to build it, which was the case in 1749, he laid the foundation stone. At his death the following testimony of the respect in which he was held by the proprietors appears among its records, of the date of 1771:—"Whereas, the Honourable Lieutenant-General Shirley, formerly Governor of this province, lately deceased, did for several years attend public worship at King's Chapel, to which he was a warm friend, and a very generous benefactor; for his more honourable interment, and to testify their gratitude for his many services, the proprietors of the said chapel have this day voted, that John Erving Esq. have liberty to deposit the corpse of the said Lieutenant-General Shirley, or any other of his family or descendants dying in America, in the tomb numbered 18, under the chapel." The remains of his wife, who was Frances, the daughter of Francis Barker, Esq., of London, had been previously deposited in a vault under this chapel. She died in September 1746. A handsome tablet, surmounted by her bust, was placed by the General to her memory in this chapel. The inscription on this tablet commemorates also the death of their second daughter, Frances, who married William Bollan, Esq; and who died in 1741, upon the birth of their only daughter and heiress, Frances Shirley Bollan, who married Charles Western, Esq., of Rivenhall,; in Essex; and was the mother of the first Lord Western.

Of their four sons, Thomas was the only one that survived his parents. He inherited Otehall. He was born in the Bahama Islands; and, after the completion of his education, entering the army, rose rapidly in the profession. In the year 1781 he was appointed Governor of the Leeward Islands, and Colonel of the 91st Foot; and in 1798 he was advanced to the rank of General of the Army,—having been created a Baronet on the 27th of June, 1786. He married June 4th, 1768, Anna Maria, the eldest daughter of Thomas Western, Esquire, also of Rivenhall. He was the son of the Thomas Western—by Mary, his wife—who was the sister and co-heiress of Sir Richard Shirley, the last of the Preston Baronets under the former patent. Sir Thomas died at Bath, February 11th, 1800, aged 74 years; and was interred in the Abbey-Church there. Of his two sons, both of whom were in the Navy, one only survived him, namely, Sir William Warden Shirley, Baronet, of Otehall, who died unmarried at Rivenhall, and was buried in the parish church. By his decease, without issue, the ancient Sussex family of the Shirleys, who had flourished at Wiston, Preston, Westgrinstead,[1] Chiddingly, and Wivelsfield, all in this county for twelve generations, became extinct in the male line; the female being still represented by the Right Hon Charles Callis Western, Baron Western, of Rivenhall, who is descended from both the elder and younger line of the Shirleys of Preston.

For the account which I have been able to give of the public services of the Shirleys of Otehall, I am very greatly indebted to "Stemmata Shirleiana"—an unpublished work of much interest and value, compiled and printed for private circulation only, by Evelyn Philip Shirley, Esq.

Upon the Otehall estate coming into the possession of Thomas Shirley, the first Baronet of this branch of the family, and his acceptance of American appointments, he made over the whole estate to Mr. William Warden, of Butler's Green, near Cuckfield, in trust, for the benefit of any family he might leave; from whom it passed to his (Sir Thomas's) second son, who became the second Baronet; and in this way I account for his possessing, in addition to Thomas, the christian name of Warden. For I could not discover from Mr. E. P. Shirley's elaborate account of the family that any relationship, or connexion by marriage, existed between the Wardens and Shirleys. By his executors, after his death, or perhaps by Sir Thomas himself, previously to his decease, the Otehall estate was sold to Mr. William Tanner, of Moorhouse in Wivelsfield, whose daughter, Miss Tanner, is the present possessor.

Many traditionary anecdotes of Governor Shirley, during his occupancy of Otehall, are still current in its neighbourhood. One of these is worthy of record; namely, that during the time the son of the first Shirley possessor of the estate resided there, he scarcely ever went from home without six horses to his carriage, which was rendered in some measure necessary by the bad state of the roads at that time, so that it was not without some difficulty that even these six, each as powerful as a brewer's dray-horse—for speed was then out of the question—were able to drag the cumbrous vehicle, in which he travelled through the mud, with the additional inconvenience of deep holes here and there, subjecting the traveller to the painful misery and danger of being jerked, first this way, and then that, as the carriage might happen to be swayed by a sudden plunge into them, to say nothing of the constant dread and apprehension of an overturn from this cause. Mr. Shirley was a man charitably disposed, and of great hospitality, on which account he was much respected by his neighbours, with whom he lived on the most friendly terms. And great was their regret when it became generally known that he was about to leave Otehall, to enter on the duties of the office to which he had been appointed, in America. And when the time arrived for his doing so, although he set off at midnight, they testified their regard for him, as well as their regret at his departure, by accompanying him in a body to the boundary of the parish, and there taking leave of him.

It is worthy of a passing remark, that Otehall was, for some years, the country residence of the celebrated Selina, Countess of Huntingdon. She fitted up the hall of the of these four sons, Thomas was the only one that survived his parents. He inherited Otehall. He was born in the Bahama Islands; and, after the completion of his education, entering the army, rose rapidly in the profession. In the year 1781 he was appointed Governor of the Leeward Islands, and Colonel of the 91st Foot; and in 1798 he was advanced to the rank of General of the Army—having been created a Baronet on the 27th of June, 1786. Sir Thomas died at Bath, February 11th, 1800, aged 73 years; and was interred in the Abbey Church there. Of his two sons, both of whom were in the Navy, one only survived him, namely, Sir William Warden Shirley, Baronet, of Otehall, who died unmarried at Rivenhall, and was buried in the parish church. [1] The founder of the Westgrinstead branch of the Shirley family, was Thomas, the second son of Ralph Shirley, Esqre., of Wiston; who died in 1545. Their place of residence was called "Marle." His father bequeathed to him How Court (in Lancing), and all the lands and tenements, which he himself had purchased, in Wiston, Beding, Broadwater, and Worthing.

By his executors, after his decease, or perhaps by Sir Thomas himself, previously to his decease, the Otehall estate was sold to Mr. William Tanner, of Abbotsford in Wivelsfield, whose daughter, Miss Tanner, is the present possessor.

Many traditionary anecdotes of Governor Shirley, during his occupancy of Otehall, are still current in its neighbourhood. One of these is worthy of especial mention; that during the time the son of the first Shirley possessor of the estate resided there, he scarcely ever went from home without six horses to his carriage; which was rendered in some measure necessary by the bad state of the roads at that time, so that it was not without some difficulty that even these six, each as powerful as a brewer's dray-horse—for speed was then out of the question—were able to drag the cumbrous vehicle, in which he travelled, through the mire, with the additional inconvenience of deep holes here and there, subjecting the traveller to the painful misery and danger of being jerked, first this way, and then that, as the carriage might happen to be swayed by a sudden plunge into them, to say nothing of the constant dread and apprehension of an overturn from this cause. Mr. Shirley was a man charitably disposed, and of great hospitality, on which account he was much respected by his neighbours, with whom he lived on the most friendly terms. And great was their regret when it became generally known that he was about to leave Otehall, to enter on the duties of the office to which he had been appointed, in America. And when the time arrived for his doing so, although he set off at midnight, they testified their regard for him, as well as their regret at his departure, by accompanying him in a body to the boundary of the parish, and there taking leave of him.

It is worthy of a passing remark, that Otehall was, for some years, the country residence of the celebrated Selina Countess of Huntingdon. She fitted up the hall of the mansion as a chapel, and her chaplain, the Rev. Wm. Romaine, of theological celebrity, sometimes preached there.

I may here remark that, though the Sussex Shirleys wrote their name differently—some of the family spelling the first syllable with an i, others with an e, and others again with u—I have disregarded this distinction, and written it invariably with an i. Mr. Lower thinks the e spelling to be the more ancient and proper method for the Sussex branch,—while to me it appears that the use of the i is the more legitimate and customary way.[2]

Some years ago, two labourers, engaged in grubbing up the stump of an old tree, in a hedge-row, on the Otehall estate, at no great distance from the house, discovered a gold coin of James I.; and, upon further search, two or three silver spoons, of antique shape, which had evidently been designedly concealed under it. The spoons were marked with the initial letters of John and Jane Godman, from whom the estate passed, by marriage, to the Shirleys. As this curious archæological discovery has been noticed by the Rev. Thomas Hutchinson, in his historical memoir of Ditchling, (see Vol. XVIII., p. 247), I need say no more upon it.

FACT AND LEGEND CONCERNING HAROLD.

BY THE REV. F. H. ARNOLD, LL.B.

In the long line of our sovereigns, Harold II. is the most intimately connected with Sussex. In the Bayeux Tapestry, the son of the patriotic Earl Godwine appears at its commencement on his paternal property in this county; and at its close he is represented as falling in defence of his crown and country on Sussex soil. Of Godwine's family, Sussex is truly said to have been both "the cradle and the grave." The octocentenary of one of the decisive battles of the world, celebrated at Hastings in 1866, and marked by the visit of the British Archæological Association to our county, directed attention anew, both to the scene of the great struggle, and to the career of one of the bravest and the last of the Saxon kings. The subject of the battle of Hastings, and its attendant circumstances, has been exhausted by Mr. Lower in the earlier volumes of these Collections. Of Harold himself, our desire for information is increased by the recollection that most of the statements which remain concerning him, are those of Norman writers,—whose obvious policy it was to malign his memory. Chroniclers of the succeeding century amplified or invented, to his discredit; and it is curious to note how their assertions were exaggerated by annalists of a later time.

The most trustworthy authorities for the period, as is well known, are the Saxon Chronicle and Florence of Worcester.

St. Mary and St. Hardulph

Breedon-on-the-Hill

The Church of Breedon-on-the-Hill is renowned for its Saxon Sculpture of the 8th Century, and reaches back to the very cradle of christianity and beyond.

In the 3rd Century B.C. it was a fortified Iron Age Settlement, and remains of the period have been found.

EXTERIOR OF CHURCH

The Church stands on a hill of magnesium limestone which has been producing stone for roadmaking and lime for agricultural purposes for a great many years. It will be seen that much of the hill has been quarried away. In the process and in other ways, a stone axe head was found pointing to a very early habitation.

Some of the prehistoric ramparts remain.

In the C.13, a new, wide and long chancel was built to the East of the tower, and that is what constitutes the present Church. It has a perpendicular clerestory, and the piers were restored in the late C.18, and perhaps worked over a little in the C.19, but the outer walls remain, the fine big lancet windows at the East end of the aisle — the arrangement of the windows at the East end of the chancel is quite recent.

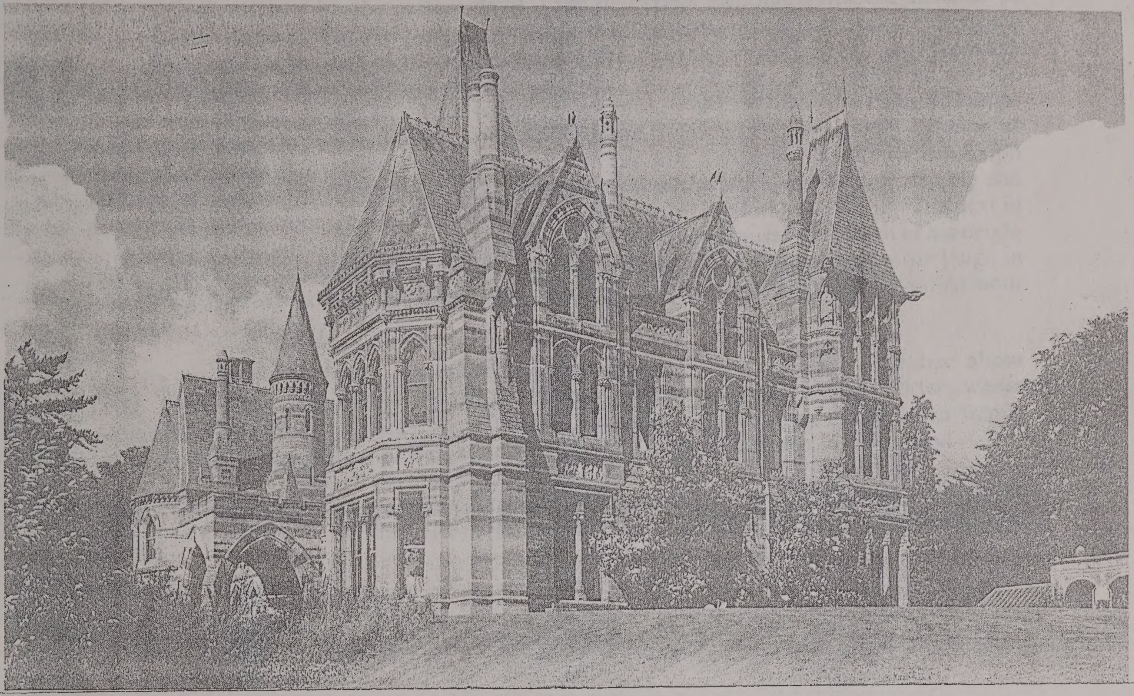
Original Seat of the Shirley Family



A BRIEF HISTORY OF ETTINGTON PARK

ETTINGTON PARK is situated in the County of Warwickshire and is the Manor of Nether or Lower Ettington 5 miles from Stratford-on-Avon and 4 from Shipston-on-Stour. The Manor House is built in beautiful country on the banks of the Stour at the foot of a hill.

Domesday Book gives it as Eatendone, derived from ea in old English, signifying water ; the Dune or Dun, an ascending ground. "For at the foot of an hill and near a river doth it stand."

Ettington Park is the original seat of the Shirley family who can claim the oldest direct lineage in the country and are able to trace direct descent throughout ten centuries.

The first mention of "The Manor of Eatingdon" and of Sasuualo (or Sewallis), the first known ancestor of the House of Shirley (his nephew assumed the name of Shirley and his descendents have ever since retained this name) appears in 1085 in the Domesday Book as follows :

> "Sasuualo holds of Henry de Feriers, seventeen hundred acres in Etendone. The arable employs 12 ploughs, four in the demesne (or Home Farm) and there are ten bondmen (slaves) there are thirty-two villeins (superior slaves), with a priest, twenty-five borders (cottagers) one soldier and two thanes (freeholders). They have sixteen ploughs and a half : a mill pays eighteen shillings, and there are thirty acres of meadow. It was worth six pounds, and afterwards four pounds, now twenty pounds".

Such was the assessment of "Eatingdon" in the reign of William the Conqueror—a striking comparison with the present day ! (The de Feriers mentioned was the ancestor of Lord Derbys' family). The mention of a priest in the Domesday Book indicates the existence of a church and, at the end of an avenue of Lime Trees in the grounds, a few yards from the house, interesting remains of this original church still exist, including an ancient font and the original tower of St. Nicholas. The House was mentioned in 1287 when the Rolls of Parliament show that Sir James Shirley petitioned Edward I for restitution of the "Manor of Eatingdon" unjustly detained from him by Ralph his son, and again in 1294 when Ralph Shirley represented the City of Warwick, as first Knight of the Shire, in Parliament. He and his wife are commemorated in the church where their effigies are still to be seen. The next in line was Sir Thomas Shirley, famous, or infamous, for having caused the death of his neighbour. However, he was pardoned by Edward III, and was in turn succeeded by Sir Hugh in the 36th year of Edward III. Sir Hugh was killed in battle at Shrewsbury in the Royal Armour of Henry IV on 20 July, 1403.

His son, Sir Ralph, resided principally at his manor at Radcliffe-on-Sore, and died about 1443. His second wife, Alice, leased the Manor of Eatingdon to Thomas Porter, whose daughter subsequently married John Underhill, whence the connection of this latter family with the estate originated, and they resided here until the middle of the 17th century.

Sir Ralph, by his first wife, was succeeded by his son of the same name, who married the heiress of Staunton-Harold in Leicestershire. He then removed his seat of residence to that estate which then continued to be the principal mansion of the elder line of the family, later represented by the Earls Ferrers.

John, the elder son of this Ralph Shirley, was father of another Sir Ralph who, in the year 1509, leased the Manor of Eatingdon to John and Agnes Underhill for a term of 80 years. (A plaque relating to this family is to be seen in the ancient church tower). Francis, the son of this Sir Ralph, married Lady Dorothy, second daughter of the Earl of Essex (Queen Elizabeth's favourite) and from this marriage the title of Ferrers came into the Shirley family. She later made a fresh lease to the Underhills in 1541, terminating in 1641. The property did not revert to the Shirley family again until this date when the then heir, Sir Charles Shirley, came to Ettington again. They occasionally resided at the manor, some rooms being reserved for their use in the leases which were granted by Sir Robert Shirley. In 1677 his son, again Sir Robert, succeeded to the Barony of Ferrers of Chartley and in 1711 was created, by Queen Anne, Earle Ferrers and Viscount Tamworth. He alienated the estate from the elder line of the family, entailing it upon his first son by his second marriage and thenceforward it continued in possession of this line of the family.

THE PRESENT MANOR HOUSE is the third to occupy the site. The original was of Saxon construction and the second Tudor, which was rebuilt in the 18th and 19th centuries, and incorporates an elaborate Victorian-Gothic facade, together with many other interesting features of this architectural period.

In the reign of Charles I, Sir Thomas Shirley wrote :

> "Close by the church is a very ancient manor house, built by an ancestor of this family so long ago that the memorie, by the revolution of so many ages, is utterly lost and forgotten; for the ancient form and structure of the house is a witness beyond all exception of its pristine antiquity, it being covered with so unknown a covering that none can tell with what it was made, plainly sheweth that it was built in so ancient times, that the very stuff whereof the texture was made is many ages since, not only worn out of the Kingdom, but also the very knowledge that ever any such thing was within the realm".

It is thought that the second and smaller house was built circa 1641, on the termination of the lease to the Underhills, using materials from the older house.

In 1740 considerable additions and alterations were made by the Hon. George Shirley, and in 1850 Evelyn Philip Shirley cased the roof in the popular Victorian style from designs by John Pritchard of Llandaff.

This fine old mansion has sculptured panels on the outer walls, showing incidents in the History of the family.

OVER THE ENTRANCE

1. The foundation of the Church of Eatington, by Safwalo or Sewallis, the ancestor of the Shirley family, in the reign of William the Conqueror. He is represented with his family kneeling, and offering a model of the church to the bishop, who is giving him the episcopal blessing. Above is the ancient coat of the family, paly of fix or and fable.

OVER THE WESTERN BAY WINDOW

2. Henry, grandson of Sewallis, fells his birthright to his brother Sewallis, in the reign of Henry II. Above their heads are the coasts of Ireton, ermine two bends gules, and Shirley, paly of fix or and azure, a quarter ermine. From the elder brother the now extinct house of Ireton, and from the younger brother Sewallis, that of Shirley, is descended.
3. Sir Sewallis de Eatendon, kt. grandson of the last Sewallis, represented on his horse with his shield, taken from his great seal. He died in the reign of Henry III, having been to the Crusades. He is here represented with the cross borne before him, and his arms, paly of fix or and fable.
4. Sir Ralph Shirley, grandson of Sir Sewallis, elected the first knight of the shire for the county of Warwick, in the 23rd year of King Edward I, anno 1294. Above is the coat of Shirley, impaling Waldershef, for Margaret, his wife, daughter of Walter de Waldershef.

OVER THE EASTERN BAY WINDOW

5. Sir Thomas Shirley, son of Sir Ralph, in the Holy Land. His page is bringing him the head of a Saracen, whom Sir Thomas is represented to have vanquished and decapitated. This is the traditional origin of the family crest. Sir Thomas was dead in 1363. Suspended from a palm tree are the arms of Shirley, impaling Basset of Drayton.
6. The death of Sir Hugh Shirley, son of Sir Thomas, at the battle of Shrewsbury, on Saturday, the 20th of July, 1403. Sir Hugh was one of the four knights who, clothed in the royal armour, successively encountered and fell under the victorious arm of Douglas in single combat, thus immortalized by Shakespeare in Douglas's speech to the king in the first part of "Henry IV".

> "Another king ! they grow like Hydras' heads :
> I am the Douglas, fatal to all those
> That wear those colours on them.—What art thou
> That counterfeit'st the person of a King",

And again in Prince Henry's speech to Douglas :

> "Hold up thy head, vile Scot, or thou art like > Never to hold it up again ! the spirits
> Of valiant Shirley, Stafford, Blunt, are in my arms :
> It is the Prince of Wales that threatens thee ;
> Who never promiseth but he means to pay".

7. Sir Ralph Shirley, son of Sir Hugh, on the eve of his departure for the wars in France with King Henry V, makes over to his mother, Beatrice, the care of Ralph, his infant son and heir, and to Richard Elebet, clerk, and others, the fee of his estates.

OVER THE DRAWING ROOM WINDOWS ON THE SOUTH SIDE OF THE HOUSE

8. The expedition of Sir Ralph Shirley, son of Sir Hugh into France with his band of archers, previous to the siege of Harfleur and battle of Agincourt, in 1415. Sir Ralph is represented taking leave of his mother. The arms of Shirley are conspicuous on the banners of his archers and retainers : on a shield are the arms of Shirley impaling Basset of Brailesford, as also on the last subject.

9. Sir Ralph Shirley, great-grandson of the preceding Sir Ralph, being dubbed a Knight by King Henry VII on the battle field of Stoke, in 1487. The Royal arms appear on the banner and horse trappings ; on one side are the arms of Shirley, impaling the coat of Sheffield of Butterwick.

Over the great library window are three panels, representing incidents in the lives of the three celebrated Shirley Brothers, the sons of Sir Thomas Shirley of Wiston, in Sussex, the representative of a younger branch of this family.

10. The attack of Sir Thomas Shirley, the younger, the eldest of the "Three Brothers", on the Turks, in the Island of Zea, in the Archipelago, in 1603.

11. Sir Anthony and Sir Robert Shirley, the two younger of the "Three Brothers", leading the Persians against the Turks, and teaching them the use of artillery, in the year 1599.

12. The famous Sir Robert Shirley's reception at the court of King James I, as Ambassador from Shah Abbas, King of Persia, in the year 1611.

OVER THE DINING-ROOM WINDOWS

13. The foundation of the Church of Staunton Harold, in Leicestershire by Sir Robert Shirley, Baronet, great, great, great-grandson of the last Sir Ralph, in the year 1653. Sir Robert and his wife, Katherine Okeover, and their son Seymour, are represented on one side; on the other, the clerical friends of Sir Robert during the persecution of the Church by Cromwell: Dr. Hammond, Dr. Gunning afterwards Bishop of Ely, Dr. Sheldon afterwards Archbishop of Canterbury, and Dr. Dolben afterwards Archbishop of York. Above are the arms of Shirley, impaling Okeover, and the motto: "He loved our country, and hath built us a synagogue", being the text from which the funeral sermon was preached on the death of Sir Robert Shirley, in 1656, by Dr. Sheldon.

14. The committal of Sir Robert Shirley, Baronet, to the Tower of London (where he died) by the Usurper, Oliver Cromwell, in 1656, in consequence of his loyalty to his Church and King.

On either side of the principal window of the gallery, are two statues carved in stone, representing King Edward the Confessor, and her present most gracious Majesty. They stand in niches beneath angels, bearing shields, charged with their respective arms.

These statues are intended to represent the period during which the house of Shirley has flourished at Eatington. Over the entrance-door is the ancient coat of Sir Sewallis de Ethindon (paly of fix or and fable), with the legend: Loyal je Suis, and between the windows of the cloister or corridor, on either side of the entrance, are heads of the first eight kings after the conquest, carved by Mr. Edward Clarke. At one end of this cloister which is roofed with glass, are the following lines on a small tablet:

"Four score and four, if God gives strength,
The web of life is spun;
Four score and four, the Cloister's length,
A statute mile is run".

under this tablet is an Iron Chest from the Spanish Armada.

The marble pillars which flank the front door, and also those within the hall, are from the Shirley estate near Carrickmacrofs in Ireland.

THE ENTRANCE HALL

The mantelpiece is of oak, in the Elizabethan style, and carved by the late Mr. Willcox of Warwick, in 1857. Beneath two large shields, representing the ancient and modern arms of Shirley and the figures of Faith, Hope, and Charity, is the following legend:

"These be the Pales of black and gold,
The which Sewallis bore of old :
And this the coat which his true heirs,
The ancient House of Shirley bears".

Three shields below, bear the arms of Shirley, impaling Stanhope, Shirley impaling Lechmere, and Lechmere impaling Murray.

The Shirleys seem to have favoured the decorating of their house with rhymes. In the servants' hall is one bidding the inmates :

"Drink, be merry and be wise, Quarrel not, and tell no lies".

Some of the living-rooms preserve features of the eighteenth century. The ceiling of the dining-room belongs to this period, and the mantelpiece is decorated with the dependent husks pattern in the style of the brothers Adam. Round the room is inlaid panelling of coats-of-arms belonging to generation after generation of the family.

All around, in stone, metal work, and wood, are reminders of the ancient lineage and dignity of this ancestral home. The Saracen's Head, forming the termination of the banisters of the stairway to the Gallery is connected with Sir Thomas Shirley's battles with the Saracens in the Holy Land in the 13th century.

DETAILS OF MAIN ROOMS

THE DINING ROOMS (37 feet in length, 20 feet in breadth)

The entrance is by a depressed Tudor arch, recently restored, part of the more ancient house, to which this portion of the Mansion belongs. The ceiling was erected by the Hon. George Shirley, about the year 1740.

The wainscot is of teak and walnut, inlaid with different coloured woods, exhibiting the Saracen's Head, the crest of the Family, with the horse-shoe and knot, the badges of the Ferrers and Bouchiers, now represented by the Shirleys ; above is repeated the ancient Devereux motto : "Loyal je Suis", and 67 shields, bearing the arms of the principal matches of the paternal ancestors, and of the sons and daughters of the house. There are also two shields with the single arms of Shirley and Lechmere, and the dates 1842, and 1860,

THE CHAPEL

Beyond the Dining Room, and communicating with it by means of a concealed door, is the small domestic Chapel. On the exterior of the two first verses from the one hundred and forty-fifth psalm, on a band running round the building, declare its sacred use :

"I will magnify thee, O God my King, and I will praise thy Name for ever and ever. Every day will I give thanks unto thee, and praise thy Name for ever and ever. Amen".

Within, a brass plate thus inscribed, gives the date of its foundation :

In the eight hundred year
From the Norman Church of England, when Saswalo the Baron was Lord of Etendone, his descendant,
Evelyn Philph Shirley, built this Chapel for the praise and worship of Almighty God, in whose sight a thousand years are but as yesterday.

The Glories of our Blood and State are shadows, not substantial things.
There is no armour against fate.
Death lays his icy hand on kings.

THE LIBRARY (41 feet in length by 19 feet)

Facing the Dining Room door, across the coloured tessellated floor, bearing the motto "Loyal je Suis" and Earl Ferres entwined horseshoes and crest, is the Library. This was formerly the entrance hall and was built in 1740. It was later remodelled and made into a Gothic Library. It has a stone chimney piece, a copy from one in Windsor Castle, and the beautiful stained glass window above it was brought from an old chapel near Campden.

During the casing of the northern wall of this room, in August 1859, on removing part of the old brickwork, a live toad was found in a small recess in the wall, where it is supposed to have been built up in 1740.

There was no appearance of the access of air to the place where it was found. The workmen preserved it alive in a bottle for a period of three months; it declined all food. The reptile is commemorated by a carving in stone near the place where it was discovered.

A concealed "bookcase door" leads from the Library to the Great Drawing Room (now the Ballroom), and it is interesting to see the great thickness of the old walls, with double doors between the rooms.

The Great Drawing Room measuring 50 ft. by 24 ft. was built by the Hon. George Shirley in 1767 and the ceiling was designed by Italian craftsmen and added in 1843. This outstanding room recalls old times of gracious living while, at the same time, it provides the enjoyment of a spacious ballroom. Its windows lead out on to an expanse of lawns and meadows, which slope down to the River Stour.

The West Dining Room is noteworthy for a remarkably fine stone fireplace also carved with the family motto, "Loyal je Suis".

In the extensive grounds are to be seen the Wishing Well, ancient Cedar trees, and underground passages with concealed entrances and exits.

There is an interesting connection with William Shakespeare. On 4th May, 1597, from William Underhill of Ettington Park he bought New Place, the second largest house in Stratford, at the corner of Chapel Street and Chapel Lane. Ettington Park is locally known as "The estate where Shakespeare was not caught poaching" !

It is recorded that in 1653 the park had 200 light and dark fallow deer. A diminished number still roam the parkland.

THE UNDERHILLS

The tower now serves as a kind of mausoleum for the Underhills, who had a lease of this place in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, and were, in their way, as remarkable a family as the Shirleys, and also, it seems, passionately addicted to genealogy. One of a Kenilworth branch of the family emigrated to America in 1630, served as a military instructor in New England and fought against the Pequot Indians. There is an Underhill Society in America, and a large volume has been written about their history. There is a tablet on a wall to Thomas Underhill and Elizabeth, his wife, who lived in "perfect amity" together above sixty-five years, and had thirteen sons and seven daughters ! They both died in 1603.

AN EPITAPH

And true report upon the death of Anthony Underhill, the sonne of Thomas Underhill, of Nether Eatington, who died the XVI day of July Anno Dno. 1587.

"Anthony Underhill lyeth here in stone,
It were but bayne for to obscure his name ;
Though no man write the death of him alone,
Yet heaven and earth will still record the fame.
Who lived to die, who died agayne to live,
With humble hart did all the world forgive.

Noe speech but prayer, noe mind but Heaven with him
Noe hope of life, noe word of vayne delight ;
His whole desire to conquere death and sinne,
With hart and voyce, with minde and all his might,
Whose glorious death, and happy end was such,
Which twentie fawe, that did rejoice them much.

For when the tyme o's fatel houre drew neare,
Rose up with ioye, a vision he espyes ;
Behold, quoth he, for yonder doth appeare
My Saviour Christ, I fee him with myne eyes.
A joyfull spectacle was p'fented ten,
In fight of God, of angells, saints, and men.

And after pawse, to shew his gladsome sitt,
He spoke and sayd, I had a question putt,
Though it were hard, yet I have answered itt,
With that he suhed, and so his eyes he shutt.
Thus sayled he into more quiet coast,
Still praying God, and so gve up the ghost.

As dreams doe slyde, as bubbles rise and fall,
As fflowers doe fade, and flourish in an hower ;
As smoke doth rise, and vapours vanish all,
Beyond the witt of reach of human power,
As somer-heat doth parch the withered grass.
Such is or stay, so lyfe of man doth passe".

At Ashby-de-la-Zouch is an epitaph in similar style to Lady Magdalen Hastings (1596), probably by the same hand.

Displayed on the staircase of the mansion are brasses, on which the wind and rain of generations have left their mark; they are of Thomas Underhill and his wife, in Tudor costume.

In the chapel built on the side of the south transept of Ettingtons ancient church, is much ancient glass and many old memorials. One of the sculptures is believed to be the work of Nicholas Stone; it is the sleeping figure of Dame Francis Freckleton. She lies under a canopy supported by four pillars, and has done so since the year 1633. Also lying in a tomb worn by time are Sir Ralph Shirley and his wife who died 600 years ago.

An imposing 18th century group with three marble figures of the first Earl Ferres and his Countess with their son George Shirley between them. Earl Ferres has elegant buckles on his shoes, and at his knees the mother wears a lovely pearl necklace, and both the parents are holding coronets.

In the chapel is to be found a simple memorial to Dr. William Croft, who was born at Ettington in either 1677 or 1678, his baptism appearing in the register of the latter year. Young William studied music at the Chapel Royal under the celebrated Dr. John Blow in 1700. One of his tasks was to write anthems for official occasions. He composed for Queen Ann's funeral "The Lord is a Sun and a Shield." One of his well known hymn tunes was called "Eatington." William Croft died at Bath in 1727.

In addition to teaching music to the children of the Royal Chapel, he became their schoolmaster for an extra £80 per year.

The stained glass in the chapel is believed to be the work of Evie Hone, who was an outstanding religious painter of modern Ireland and a stained glass artist of International stature.

It was Mr. E. P. Shirley who erected on the Shipston Road, outside Ettington Park the milestone that stands and reads.

Very well preserved

"What's astonishing is its state of preservation," says Cox. "It looks like a forgery, it's so clear and neat. I'd rather it were curled and black." Scholars disagree, so as the individual folios are steamed to flatten them and then carefully cleaned, they are also being photographed – gutters, marginalia and all – for the new facsimile edition.

Alecto Historical Editions will publish the facsimile in looseleaf folios, county by county, using acid-free paper and continuous-tone lithography, which avoids the tiny dots that make up normal half-tone prints. The academic edition of Great Domesday, with maps, translations and computer indexes compiled at the University of California, Santa Barbara, will cost $2200, while 31 individually bound county volumes will cost $165 each. Little Domesday will be published later.

Though inevitably the Norman clerks who compiled the book simplified the puzzling names and varied practices of Anglo- Saxon landholding, their work, wrote the late historian Doris Mary Stenton in 1951, "is as competent and accurate as that of any modern government department working with all the apparatus of card indexes and typewriters."

Computers have since rendered information processing far easier, so the BBC, with government and corporate help, is now gathering similar information about Britain 900 years later. In a $2.75 million project, the BBC has divided the country into 23,434 4-by-3-kilometer blocks and asked 10,000 schools and local groups to describe, photograph and survey them. Combining that textual, graphical and visual information with public records such as the census and national household surveys, the BBC will compile the equivalent of two full sets of the Encyclopedia Brittanica on two 12-inch laser video discs.

The Domesday Discs

Philips Electronics is designing a new player to hook up to a microcomputer that will allow the user to search through the discs and ask questions. Beginning with a country map, says the BBC's Michael Tibbetts, a user can request information ranging from local newspaper readership and how it's changed to farming acreage, unemployment or voting patterns and photographs of local landmarks. The BBC will sell the package, including player, discs and computer, for about $1650.

Called "The Domesday Discs," the project, says Tibbetts, found resistance in Scotland, which was independent in 1086 and wanted no part of this commemoration of a conquered people. There it will be called "The People's Database."

The anniversary brings quiet pride to Maj. John E. Shirley, scion of the only family extant that can trace its male line to the Domesday Book and still lives on the same land, Ettington Park, near Stratford-upon-Avon in Warwickshire.

"I feel only a link in the chain," said Shirley over lunch at The Calvary and Guards Club. "Besides fecundity, we're a family that hasn't particularly distinguished ourselves. We've not done anything in the 900 years to get a knighthood or baronetcy."

But Sir Colin Cole, the Garter Principal King of Arms, broke in to say: "What's extraordinary about Maj. Shirley and his family is the continuity of occupation, their care for the land and their ability to support all the levels of taxation since the 11th century!"

Spiritual pilgrimage

TWO hundred Americans will be visiting Isfield Church near Lewes, East Sussex, next year with a single objective in view. All bearing the surname Shirley, the Americans are descendants of settlers who left these shores in 1646.

Of particular interest to the transatlantic visitors will be the alabaster tomb in the pre-Reformation (similarly spelt) Shurley Chapel just restored for £5,500 and drawn for me by Moira Hoddell.

Sir John Shurley lies in effigy betwen his two wives—Lady Jane and Lady Dorothy. A number of their children are also shown including two sons and two daughters who can be seen holding skulls as a sign that they died.

"The Anglo-Saxon Chronicle"

By Steven Erlanger
Globe Staff

LONDON – William the Conquerer spent Christmas 1085 at Gloucester, in council with his barons, discussing the kingdom of the Angles and Saxons they had won in the Battle of Hastings 19 years before, in 1066. The population was still sullen, recovering from the devastation of the war; their Norman rulers were building their castles in every major port and town to defend their new lands.

Accomplished in 8 months

William decided to order a survey of his kingdom, to discover what there was of value in it, and who held what land, men, equipment and livestock. It is thought he wanted to judge the costs of the war, settle land disputes and solidify the new order, while creating a new basis for taxation. In only eight months, by Michaelmas (Sept. 29) 1086, the astonishing job was done. There had been nothing comparable in Western Europe since Roman times, nor was there anything similar in Europe until the 13th century.

Dividing the country into circuits, William sent his men to the shire, or county, courts to take testimony village by village, with information checked by the local priest. This unprecedented inquiry created fear and hatred among the Anglo- Saxons; there were riots and enough false testimony that new visits were required to some counties, and many people were punished for perjury.

Once gathered, the data was reorganized as a directory of aristocratic landholders. A brief description of the county town was followed by an index of landholders, beginning with the king, passing through his bishops and noblemen to his servants and finally those of English birth. Under the names of the king and each tenant-in-chief – those who held land directly from William – there follows a description of the estates each held within the shire.

The results were then sent to the exchequer at Winchester, where a scribe condensed and abbreviated the entries and wrote them in his Norman Latin, county by county, onto sheepskin parchment bound into what was called "the king's book" or "the book of the exchequer," though it was made up into two volumes.

Oldest public record

But the inevitable comparison of the Normans' inquiry with the last great Day of Judgment caused the work to be known as the Domesday (pronounced doomsday) Book. The decisions made from the evidence in its pages, wrote a 12th century historian, "like those of the Last Judgment, are unalterable."

The Domesday Book, 900 years old next year, is the oldest public record in the United Kingdom, and can be said to mark the beginning of its history as a land (save Oliver Cromwell) united under a continuous crown. It was used to settle a dispute only 30 years ago.

To mark its 900th anniversary, the government's Public Record Office is planning a major exhibition in its Chancery Lane building. The theme will be the continuity of royal government from the Conquerer, William I, to the prospective William V, the 2¾-year-old eldest son of the current heir, Prince Charles.

The exhibit, which opens in April 1986 and runs through September, will attempt to describe how the book was made and used and to bring 11th century England to life. The entrance will display the ornate, 40-foot-long family tree of the current Lord Sudeley, who traces his family back through the Domesday Book and King Ethelred the Unready to Charlemagne.

Domesday
1086·1986

"The 900th anniversary is already stirring latent feelings of patriotism and taking on the character of a national festival," says Jane Cox, the principal assistant keeper at the public records office. "There are about 1.5 million people and 13,000 places mentioned in the Domesday Book, and every English village traces its history from its mention there."

Even Domesday jam

Plans include a day of jousting (admittedly anachronistic) at the Tower of London, with lots of mead drinking and morris dancing, six commemorative stamps and an illustrated Domesday gazetteer. Tourists will be able to buy Domesday umbrellas, a Wedgwood plate, replicas of an 11th century backgammon set discovered last year at Gloucester and a preserve to be called Domesday jam.

But more importantly, the public records office is now repairing and rebinding the book. A full-color facsimile complete with translations, maps and computerized indexes is being painstakingly prepared, and the British Broadcasting Corp. has already begun collating a 1986 Domesday Book to be published as two interactive computer video discs.

The two volumes of the Domesday Book – Great Domesday, containing details of 31 counties in 382 folios (764 pages) measuring about 14½ by 20 inches, and the smaller Little Domesday, a detailed survey of Norfolk, Suffolk and Essex in 451 folios (902 pages) – were last rebound in 1952-53. Each folio, consisting of the skin of one 11th century sheep, and sometimes with a corner missing where the creature's leg began, was bound in thick parchment guards to protect it. "But there's an air of post-war penury about it," says Helen Ford, the record office's conservation chief: the post-war sheep, badly fed, were inferior.

So the 1950s parchment that binds the folios is being replaced with the skins of fatted Thatcherite sheep, toned to match the brownish color of the original. The guards, which chief binder Donald Gubbins says were a bad idea, made the Great Domesday over 7 inches thick and impossible to open flat; the new parchment will be sewn directly into the binding. The two volumes will be rebound

(The Seagraves Line)

I. John, Lord Seagraves, was summoned to Parliament in 1296. He married Lady Margaret Plantagenet, daughter of Thomas of Brotherton and Alice Halys. (Norfolk I.) She was created Duchess of Norfolk for life, September 29, 1397, by Richard II, King of England. She married (second) Sir William Manny.

(G. E. Cokayne: "Complete Peerage," Vol. IX, pp. 377-80. Burke: "Dormant and Extinct Peerages," p. 387. H. B. George: "Genealogical Tables Illustrative of Modern History," Table III.)

They had: Elizabeth, of whom further.

II. Elizabeth Seagraves, daughter of John, Lord Seagraves, married John (3) Lord de Mowbray. (de Mowbray VI.) (Ibid.)

(The Shirley Line)

Shirley, the surname later assumed by the family whose records follow, is of local derivation. The ancestor in Generation III, Sewallis de Syrle, translated the family seat from Edingdon to Shirley, in Derbyshire, before his death in 1129. The family has used Shirley as the surname from that time.

(C. W. Bardsley: "Dictionary of English and Welsh Surnames." E. Brydges: "Collins' Peerage of England," Vol. IV, p. 88. E. P. Shirley: "Stemmata Shirleiana," p. 9.)

I. Susuualo, Susuallo or Sewallis, Lord of Edingdon, earliest recorded ancestor of this family, died in 1085. He was an eminent man, having large possessions in the counties of Warwick, Lincoln, Northampton and Derby. The church of Nether-Edingdon was endowed and built by him, which church later adopted St. Thomas à Becket as its patron saint. After the Conquest, the lordship of Edingdon was given to Henry, Earl of Ferrers, in Normandy, and was held under him by Susuualo or Sewallis, to whose posterity, in the male line, it has continued in uninterrupted succession of its owners almost to the present day. He was succeeded by his son: Fulcher, of whom further.

(E. Brydges: "Collins' Peerage of England," Vol. IV, pp. 87-88. E. P. Shirley: "Stemmata Shirleiana," pp. 2, 7.)

II. Fulcher Edingdon, son of Susuualo, Susuallo or Sewallis, Lord of Edingdon, died about 1105. He had: Sewallis, of whom further.

(E. Brydges: "Collins' Peerage of England," Vol. IV, p. 88. E. P. Shirley: "Stemmata Shirleiana," pp. 2, 7.)

III. Sewallis de Syrle, Lord of Edingdon, son of Fulcher Edingdon, died about 1129. He translated the family seat from Edingdon to Shirley, in Derbyshire, and from where the family assumed the name.

He married (first) Matilda, daughter of Ridel, of Halaughton. He had: Henry, of whom further.

(E. Brydges: "Collins' Peerage of England," Vol. IV, p. 89. E. P. Shirley: "Stemmata Shirleiana," pp. 2, 9.)

IV. Henry de Syrle or Shirley, son of Sewallis and Matilda (Ridel) de Syrle, held five knights' fees in Derbyshire of Robert de Ferrers, Earl of Derby, and died about 1165. He was a witness to the foundation charter of Merevalle Abbey, which was founded by Robert de Ferrers. Henry de Syrle or Shirley gave the lordship of Ivanbrook to the Monks of Bildewas.

Henry de Syrle or Shirley married Joanna de Clinton, daughter of John de Clinton, of Essex, by whom he had a son: Sewallis, of whom further. (Ibid.

V. Sewallis de Shirley, son of Henry and Joanna (de Clinton) de Syrle or Shirley, was the first recorded ancestor to be listed with the now ancient surname Shirley. In 1167, he acknowledged himself to hold of William de Ferrers, Earl of Derby, those nine knights' fees, which Henry, his father, and his uncle Fulcher, held of Robert de Ferrers, grandfather of William de Ferrers.

Sewallis de Shirley married Isabel Meynell, daughter and co-heir of Robert Meynell of Langley Meynell, Derbyshire. They were the parents of: James, of whom further.

(E. Brydges: "Collins' Peerage of England," Vol. IV, p. 89. E. P. Shirley: "Stemmata Shirleiana," pp. 2, 11.)

VI. Sir James de Shirley, son of Sewallis and Isabel (Meynell) de Shirley, died about 1278. He was a knight, and had a freewarren granted to him in all his demesnes at Shirley in 1247, and at Etingdon in 1255.

Sir James de Shirley married Agnes de Walton, daughter of Simon de Walton, Bishop of Norwich They had a son: Ralph, of whom further.

(E. Brydges: "Collins' Peerage of England," Vol. IV, p. 89. E. P. Shirley: "Stemmata Shirleiana," pp. 2, 13-15.)

VII. Sir Ralph de Shirley, son of Sir James and Agnes (de Walton) de Shirley, died in 1327. He held the manors of Eatondon, and that of Barnham in Suffolkshire, near Thetford, by gift of his grandfather Bishop Simon de Walton. In the twentieth-eighth year (1300) of the reign of Edward I, he held th custody of the counties of Salop and Stafford, with the castle of Shrewsbury committed to his charge. I 99, 1300 and 1301, he was sheriff of the counties of Derby and Nottingham. In 1301, he was summoned to attend the King at Berwick on Tweed to march against the Scots. In the third year of Edward II (1310), he was appointed one of the justices of Warwickshire, and two years later served in two Parliaments held in that year, as representative for Warwickshire. In 1315, in the reign of Edward II, he was Governor of Horiston Castle in Derbyshire, and in the sixteenth year of the reign of Edward II, he was Commissioner of Warwickshire, and was listed, in the same year, among the knights who were certified in the Chancery.

Sir Ralph de Shirley married Margaret de Waldeshief, daughter of Walter de Waldeshief, of Fairfield, Derbyshire, cupbearer of Edward II. They had a son: Thomas, of whom further.

(E. Brydges: "Collins' Peerage of England," pp. 89-90. E. P. Shirley: "Stemmata Shirleiana," pp. 16-18, 30.)

VIII. Sir Thomas Shirley, the de being dropped in this and later generations, son of Sir Ralph and Margaret (de Waldeshief) de Shirley, died in 1362. He was famed for his valor and many services rendered to the Kings of England in their conflicts with the French. He was one of the knights who served in the Parliament from County Warwick.

Sir Thomas Shirley married Isabel Basset. (Basset-Shirley III.) They had a son: Hugh, of whom further.

(E. Brydges: "Collins' Peerage of England," Vol. IV, pp. 90-91. E. P. Shirley: "Stemmata Shirleiana," pp. 20, 30.)

IX. Sir Hugh Shirley, son of Sir Thomas and Isabel (Basset) Shirley, was killed at the battle of Shrewsbury, July 22, 1403. He succeeded his father. His uncle, Robert Lord Basset, of Drayton, named him his heir, if he would assume the surname Basset, but this he refused to do. He confirmed the manors of Shirley and Hoone in County Derby, and that of Etingdon, in Warwick, to his mother, Isabel Braybroke, who had remarried. These manors were assigned to be her dower by his father. He was made chief warden of Higham Ferrers Park by John of Gaunt, and in the twenty-second year of Richard II (1399), he was made constable of Donnington Castle by Henry of Bolingbroke, Duke of Lancaster, and later Henry IV.

Sir Hugh Shirley married Beatrix de Braose, daughter of Peter and Joan (Weedon) de Braose. They had three daughters, and a son: Ralph, of whom further. (Ibid.)

X. Sir Ralph Shirley, son and heir of Sir Hugh and Beatrix (de Braose) Shirley, was born on St. George's Day, April 23, 1392, and died in France, about 1443. He was retained to serve the King in person in Guienne. He was knighted in the fifth or sixth year of the reign of Henry V, whose reign began in 1413, and like his father, he too served his king valiantly in the wars in France.

Sir Ralph Shirley married (first) Joan Basset, daughter of Thomas and Margery (Meringe) Basset. He married (second) Alice, who died in 1466. A daughter of the first marriage was: Beatrix, of whom further.

(E. Brydges: "Collins' Peerage of England," Vol. IV, pp. 92-93. E. P. Shirley: "Stemmata Shirleiana," pp. 30, 33-34.)

XI. Beatrix Shirley, daughter of Sir Ralph and Joan (Basset) Shirley, died about 1483.

She married John (2) Brome. (Brome II.) (Ibid.)

(THE DE STAFFORD LINE)

Stafford is a surname of local origin for a dweller "at the stave-ford," and is believed to derive from the old English Straethford, the bank or shore at the ford.

(M. A. Lower: "Patronymica Britannica." H. Harrison: "Surnames of the United Kingdom.")

I. Robert (1) de Tosny, Toeni, Tonei or Toenei, younger brother of Ralph de Tosny, was living at the time of Henry I. Like his brother he received a great fief from William the Conqueror as a reward for his aid in the invasion of England. At the Domesday Survey he possessed one hundred and thirty-one lordships in Suffolk, Lincoln, Gloucester, Warwick and Stafford, but because eighty-one of these were in Staffordshire, and Stafford Castle was his residence, he became known as Robert de Stafford. He made gifts of his lordships at Wrotestye and Livinstune to the monks of Evesham, and founded an Augustinian Priory at Stoke.

He married Avice de Clare. They had a son: Nicholas, of whom further.

(W. Dugdale: "The Baronage of England," Vol. I, p. 156. Burke: "Dormant and Extinct Peerage," p. 458. E. Brydges, Editor: "Collins' Peerage of England," Vol. II, p. 21. T. C. Banks: "Dormant and Extinct Baronage of England," Vol. I, p. 171.)

II. Nicholas de Stafford was buried with his wife at the Cloister at Stone. During the reign of Henry I, he served as sheriff of Staffordshire.

He married Maud, and had a son: Robert, of whom further. (Ibid.)

MARIAN O. SHIRLEY
1007 FREDRICK DR. S.
INDIANAPOLIS, IN 46260

Little Ireton Hall, formerly the residence of the Iretons, has been pulled down, and a farm-house built on the site, now the property of Lord Scarsdale.*

To the preceding account of the descendants of Sasuualo, ancestor of the Shirleys and Iretons, it may be interesting in this place to add some detached notices of another family, who from bearing the same name, and nearly the same arms, may be supposed to claim descent from the House of Ettington. I allude to the SHURLEYS OF ISFIELD.

This ancient family appears to have taken its name from Shurley, a manor in the parish of Lingen, near Presteign, in the county of Hereford, but was of Isfield in Sussex, early in the reign of Henry the Eighth. Their first recorded ancestor in that county, John Shurley, esq. cofferer to King Henry the Eighth, by will,† dated March 1, 1526 (18 Hen. VIII.), proved November 23, 1529, directs "to be buried in the church of Isfelde;" appoints John Shurley, his heir apparent, to be his executor; bequeaths to him inter alia "three great bolles, with a cover, all gilt, pounced, [that is, perforated,] which he bought of th' executours of my lady the King's graunt dame,‡ and two salts, with a cover, which were gevyn unto my wife by hir brother, John Goryng, at her marriage." Names Parnell Grauntford his wife, deceased; William, his second son; Edward Shurley, his third son, under the age of 24, with this salvo, "if he be a priest:" Joane and Bridget, his daughters, unmarried; he appoints Roger More, Sergaunt of the King's bakehouse, co-executor with John his son; Sir Richard Broke, knight, Chief Baron of the Exchequer, supervisor; and Thomas Weldon, third clerk of the King's kitchen, a legatee. He mentions lands at Prestend (Presteign), co. Hereford, in the marches of Wales, which were William Walker's his grandfather's, and Roger Shurley, "myn own father's;" and directs prayers for the soul of his grandfather and Margery his wife, and for that of his own mother. There are numerous notices of this John Shurley the cofferer among the State Papers of the reign of Henry VIII. and mention also of Richard Shurley, bailiff of the town of Ware, in Hertfordshire, who, I take it, was his brother. In the first year of Henry VIII. Richard Shurley, clerk, was presented to the rectory of "Pembrigge" in the county of Hereford; and in the following year (1510) Thomas Shurley, who was clearly of this family, was appointed bailiff during pleasure of Netherwood, co. Hereford, for faithful service done to the King's sister, the Princess of Castile, lately held by Philip Howard and Richard Shurley, deceased.[*]

‡ Margaret, Countess of Richmond and Derby, ob. 1509.

Ralph Sherley, of Wiston, in his will, dated February 11, 1509, calls this John Shurley "his cousin,"[†] which at first sight is certainly some reason for supposing that the Isfield branch were originally sprung from the Shirleys of Ettington; there is, however, no other evidence of the fact;[‡] and considering the loose manner in which that term was applied at this period, and the local name in Herefordshire, and the grant of arms hereafter referred to, I conclude that this was only a complimentary description. In the seventeenth century however there was a union between the families, as has been already noticed, and the Shurleys of Isfield, distinguished more particularly as a legal family, were of considerable consequence in Sussex till the middle of the seventeenth century.

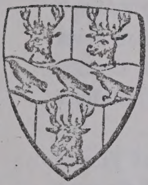
[‡] There is a pedigree of Shurley of Isfield, commencing with John Shurley, of Langfeld in com. York, esq. in one of Vincent's collections in the College of Arms. (Vincent, 216.) This is the same as that given in Horsfield's Antiquities of Lewes, vol ii. p. 145, which is copied from one preserved among the Burrell MSS. in the British Museum, (Addit. 5711, p. 147), which professes to be "transcribed from Sir Robert Smyth's pedigree." I have no doubt that the first eight descents in this pedigree, beginning with John Shurley, of Langfeld, or Longfield, are fictitious, and that, consequently, there is no authority for the Shurleys of Isfield quartering the coats of Staveley and Gryndall, which this pedigree assumes from a supposed match of "Henry Shurley and Elizabeth, daughter and one of the heirs of John Staveley, esq."

The Shurleys of Isfield are supposed to have become extinct in the male line by the death of Arthur Shurley, esq. in 1667. From Elizabeth, his eldest daughter, who married Sir James Smyth, knt. Lord Mayor of London, descended the Smyths, baronets of Isfield, extinct in 1811.



Paly of four azure and gules, three stag's heads couped argent, on a fess wavy or three Cornish choughs proper. Shurley, ancient.

Paly bendy of eight argent and azure, a canton ermine. Shurley, modern.

An interesting account of Isfield, the ancient seat of this family, and of their curious monuments, once fast hastening to decay, but restored not many years since by the munificence of the late Henry Vincent, esq. in the south chancel of the church there, is preserved in the Topographer,[*] and in Horsfield's History of Lewes.[†] The original coat of Shurley of Isfield, granted to "Shurley, Cofferer, temp. Hen. VIII." was, Paly of four azure and gules, three stag's heads couped argent, on a fess wavy or three Cornish choughs proper: crest, on a wreath argent and vert a talbot's head of the first, in his mouth a bird-bolt or.[‡] In the Visitation of Sussex in 1634, the simpler coat of Paly bendy of eight argent and azure, a canton ermine, quartering, 1. Argent, a chevron sable between three mascles gules (Staveley); 2. Ermine, a cross flory gules (Gryndall), is admitted. This latter coat appears on the monument of Thomas Shurley, esq. who died in 1579.

Wills of the following members of the house of Isfield are registered in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury: John Shurley, pr. 1529; Anne Shurley, of Bexley, Kent, widow of Thomas S. of Isfield, pr. 1622; Sir John Shurley, pr. 1631; Robert Shurley, pr. 1650; Dame Mary Shurley, pr. 1657; Edward Shurley, pr. 1657; Arthur Shurley, pr. 1658; Sir George Shurley's will, proved in the Prerogative Court of Dublin in 1646. He died in Dublin, being Chief Justice of Ireland, but was buried at Isfield.

[‡] Grants, 2nd G. 4, in Coll. Arm.

In the counties of York and Dorset there were two families of some antiquity, who, as they bore the name of Shirley, and the arms of the House of Ettington, may possibly have sprung from that ancient lineage, and challenge, accordingly, some mention here. The Shirleys of Yorkshire were originally, as tradition affirms, from Shirley in Derbyshire,* in which county, at Mill Town, in the parish of Chapel-en-le Frith, the representative of the family † possessed property in the year 1841. They settled at Laughton about the year 1534, but appear to have been merely yeomen, Richard Shirle, their ancestor, describing himself in his will,‡ dated February 4, 1613, as "Richard Shirle of Wickersley, yeoman." About the beginning of the seventeenth century, as appears from the parish registers, they were seated at Wickersley, in the county of York. The Shirleys of Wickersley are thus noticed in Hunter's South Yorkshire:—

> In the middle aisle of Wickersley church is the gravestone of Thomas Shirley, of Wickersley, who died Aug. 19, and was buried the 21st of the same month, 1667. This stone has a shield of arms, Paly of six pieces for Shirley, which are repeated on the door of a pew near to the place, impaling a saltier, which is intended for Scargel, his wife being a sister of Robert Scargel, of Sheffield. Shirley was one of the principal freeholders of this manor; he was the son of Thomas Shirley and Sarah Eyre, (daughter of William Eyre, of Bramley, co. York, gent.; married at Laughton in 1616,) and grandfather to Thomas Wylde, who inherited the greater part of the lands of Shirley, and died at Wickersley in 1756.§

* In All Saints' church, Hertford, was the following inscription to a Mr. John Shirley, who claimed connexion with the same county. "Here underneith lies interred the body of JOHN SHERLEY, gent. of this parish, and of SUSAN his wife, which John descended from the antient and worthy family of the Sherleys in Derbyshire and Lancashire, (q. Leicestershire?) and he died 11th Sept. 1621; and which said Susan deceased the 18th of June, 1623, leaving issue between them John and Elizabeth, now living." Clutterbuck's Hist. of Herts, vol. ii. p. 165.

† Mr. Aldred of Rotherham.

‡ Archiepiscopal Registry at York.

§ The gravestone of Thomas Shirley, mentioned by Hunter, is no longer to be seen at Wickersley. It was covered over in 1834, when the church, with the exception of

Hutchins, in his History of Dorsetshire,* makes the following mention of a family of Shirley seated at Bagbere, in the parish of Sturminster Newton, in that county:—

> Of late years the Joyces and Shirleys have, by degrees, purchased all or the greater part of this hamlet. The Shirleys have been long seated here; 36th Henry VIII. William Peter, of Milton, co. Hants, sold thirty-eight acres of land here to William Shirley of Bagbere, whose descendants acquired a pretty considerable estate here, and in these parts, now (1774) possessed by Shirley, esq. No pedigree of these two last-mentioned families occurs in the visitation book of this county.

The Shirleys are said to have purchased Bagbere from the Stork family in the reign of Henry VIII. It appears by an inquisition on the death of William Shirley,† that he died on the 14th of September, 1545, possessed of "Backbere," and of this family was no doubt William Shirley, of Christ Church, Oxford, a very learned divine, born at Blandford, "parentibus probris et claris," rector of Huish Combflower, in the diocese of Wells, and incumbent of Shapwick, in Dorsetshire; author of "The Excellency of the Order of the Church of England under Episcopal Government," set forth in a sermon at the Visitation of Blandford, anno 1640. 4to. London, 1662. He died August 31, 1658, ætatis suæ 57, and was buried at Shapwick, where there is a mural monument to his memory.

There are no sepulchral inscriptions for the Shirleys of Bagbere, now supposed to be extinct, in the parish church of Sturminster Newton, nor are they noticed in the registers before 1690.

The old mansion at Bagbere, where the family resided, is about a mile and a half north-west from the town of Sturminster, on the

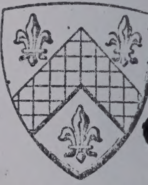
the tower, was rebuilt from the ground. The old house of the Shirleys, in the same village, has been also of late pulled down, and another built on its site.

* Vol. ii. p. 411.

† In the Prerogative Court of Canterbury is preserved the will of Thomas Sherley, of Clement's Inn, gent. proved 1564-5. He was certainly of this family, and mentions a lease of lands he held in Dorsetshire, kept in the Castle of Sturminster Newton. He names also his children, Thomas, William, Nicholas, and Joan.

other side of the river Stour; it stands on the side of a retired lane, and appears to have been rebuilt about the reign of Charles II. and altered about Queen Anne's time. On a tablet above the door is the coat of Shirley, Paly of six, a canton ermine; impaling, quarterly: 1 and 4, a bend; 2. Or, two bear's jambs erased in chevron; 3. Three pales, on a chief three roundels; crest, a Saracen's head, full-faced, wreathed about the temples. The house is now [1841] much gone to decay, and inhabited by a farmer. On one side are the remains of an old-fashioned garden, with a yew hedge: a farm of 160 acres of rich land, with right of common, belongs to the house, in 1841 the property of Mr. William Henning, of Dorchester, by purchase from a Mr. Lewis, who bought it from the Shirleys.

The Visitation of London in the year 1634 preserves the pedigree of another family of the name of Shirley, and to whom a coat of arms was granted by Segar in 1609, viz. Gules, a chevron checky argent and sable between three fleurs-de-lis or. Crest, on a torse three arrows or entwined with a wreath vert. These bearings, if there is any use or meaning in the science of heraldry, point to a totally different origin for this London family (which is supposed to have been long extinct), and who are traced to a Ralph Shirley, who came from Cheshire at the beginning of the seventeenth century. But there was a much older and more important family of the name connected with London, of whom in the fifteenth century was the celebrated collector of the works of our earliest poets, John Shirley. "I have seen them and partly do possess them," says Stowe. Very little appears to be known about this worthy, and that little is traced to his epitaph, preserved in Stowe's Survey, which was in 1633 in the church of St. Bartholomew-the-Less, London. It is described as "a faire flat stone, having pictures in brasse in the habit of pilgrims, in commemoration of this gentleman and his wife." Stowe adds, that "this Mr. Shirley was a great traveller in divers countries."



Gules, a chevron, check argent and sable, betwee three fleurs-de-lis or. Shir ley of London.

The epitaph was as follows:—

Behold how ended is our poore pilgrimage of John Sherley, Esquire, with Margaret his wife, that twelve children had together in marriage,
eight sonnes and four daughters, withouten strife,
that in honour, nurture, and labour flowed in fame.
his pen reporteth his lives occupation,
since Pier his life-time, John Shirley by name.
of his degree, that was in Brutes Albion;
that in the yere of grace deceased from hen fourteen hundred winters, and six and fifty.
in the years of his age fourscore and ten,
of October moneth the day one and twenty.

It may be doubted whether Stowe's assertion that John Shirley was a "great traveller" is not founded upon his habit as a pilgrim upon this tomb, which is no longer in existence; moreover, the line "his pen reporteth his lives occupation" appears to contradict it. That there was a good foundation for this assertion there is, however, no doubt; the following is a list of manuscripts still existing, which go far to prove it:—

1. No. 59 in the Ashmolean Collection, very fully described in Black's Catalogue. At the beginning of the book is the inscription "Ma joye Shirley," with a crowned M in the centre; this MS. is for the most part a collection of the works of Lidgate and Chaucer. The following stanza is by the collector of these poems:—

Yee that desyre in herte and have plesaunce
Olde stories in bokis for to rede
Gode matiers, putt hem in remembrance,
And of þe oþer take yee none hede,
Byseching yowe of your godeleyhede,
Whom yee þis boke haue over-redde and seyne,
To Johan Shirley restore yee it ageine.

2. No. 2251 in the Harleian Collection. A paper book, in small folio, which had belonged to John Stowe the historian, containing a large collection of ballads by Lidgate and some few other authors. It is described at length in the Catalogue. At

p. 118, is the following note: "Shirley kowde fynde no more for this copye."

3. A manuscript formerly in the Thoresby Collection at Leeds, No. 108, now in the British Museum, MSS. Addit. 3467. It contains translations, both from Latin and French, "by your symple subject and umble serveyture John Shirley of London, anno 1440."

4. Another of John Shirley's MSS. was discovered a few years ago at Clifford-Chambers, in Gloucestershire. It contains a collection of miscellaneous poems, with the motto "Ma joye Shirley," and contains "the Balade made of Isabelle, Countess of Warrewyk and Lady Despencer, by Richard Beauchamp, Earlle of Warrewyk," printed by the late Sir F. Madden in Notes and Queries, 2nd Series, vol. v. p. 21. This MS. is now in the British Museum, MSS. Addit. 16,165.

5. A manuscript in the Library of Trinity college, Cambridge, R. 3, 20, also written by John Shirley.

Other gentle families of the name of Shirley, but apparently unconnected with the House of Ettington, existed in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries, both at Salisbury and at Avon-Dassett in Warwickshire. Of the former family was Walter Shirley, citizen of Salisbury, whose Latin will is dated in 1424.* Letters Patent were granted to him and others by King Henry V. to array the hoblers and archers within the city of Salisbury.† The will of John Shirley, of Avon-Dassett, is dated in 1564-5; he seems to have been of some consequence, and desired to be buried within the church there.* In later times in various parts of England there have been families of the yeoman class of this name. There were Shirleys of Hilton, in the parish of Marston-on-Dove, in Derbyshire, existing there since the year 1658, of which family was the late Mr. Samuel Shirley of London, who died in January 1847, leaving issue. At Newbury, in Berkshire, was a respectable family of the name in the beginning of the eighteenth century; of this house was the Rev. Ralph Shirley, rector of Welford and Peasmore, in Berkshire. He bequeathed his property in 1776 to John Archer, esq. In Palmer's "Nonconformist's Memorial" [*] we meet with a Mr. Shirley who was ejected from the rectory of Dynton, in Buckinghamshire, in the time of Charles II.; and a dissenting minister of the name, formerly at Sevenoaks, in Kent, descended from a family of graziers at Brill in that county, was very probably of this stock.

In Warwickshire there were yeomen of the name of Shirley; at Barford, near Warwick, as early as 1664, and at Brailes and Barton-on-the-Heath early in the eighteenth century. In Kent and Sussex the name was very common in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, and will be found in the parish registers at Birchington in the former county, and at Balcomb, Bolney, Peasmarsh, and Ifield, in the latter.

In Ireland the first notice which I have found of any one of the name of Shirley is in Dodd's "Church History," who mentions Paul Shirley as having been born in Ireland in 1595. He was for twenty years rector of the Irish colleges at Salamanca and Compostella, and died in 1646. Soon after this latter date there was a family of Shirley in Dublin, one of whom, James Shirley, eloped, previous to 1668, with Miss Mary Ware, granddaughter of the historian Sir James Ware, as we learn from two scarce tracts, Dudley Loftus's "Case of Ware and Shirly" and "The Case of Mrs. Mary Ware and James Shirly," 4to. 1669. In the county of Kilkenny there is a still existing family of Shirley, said to be descended from a certain William Shirley, who accompanied King William III. to Ireland and settled in the county of Wexford.

[*] Vol. i. p. 235.

The name of Shirley is very unusual in America, as I was informed by the late Mr. Savage, the well-known genealogist of Boston in New England, writing in 1846; he added, "There was one of the name who died some 70 or 90 years since, in the remote parts of New Hampshire; but the only cause of noting his death was that he ran over a hundred years. In Virginia however Shirleys were heard of not many years back." It is possible that this latter family may be descended from a certain Thomas Shirley, aged 23, who embarked in the Thomas and John, Richard Lombard master, bound for Virginia on the 6th of June 1635. This fact appears from a MS. list of names of persons who embarked from the port of London in that year, now preserved in the Public Record Office, of the family of the late Mr. Henry Shirley, of Hyde Hall, and Eatindon, in Jamaica, (who died at the former place in 1848). I may add, that, although from the assumption of the latter name as that of one of their estates in Jamaica it might be supposed they were originally of the same stock as the House whose lineage has been attempted in this volume, I have ascertained that the fact is apparently otherwise; the name was originally Sherdley, and can be traced to a certain Henry Sherdley, grandfather of the late Mr. Henry Shirley, who was a son of Mr. Henry Sherdley, of Ormskirk, in Lancashire, whose ancestors may possibly have derived their name from a place called Sherdley Hall in that neighbourhood.

Of James Shirley the poet it has been already observed that there is no reason to believe that he belonged to the House of Ettington. The following pedigree gives, on the authority of his will, the names of his immediate relations:—

GEORGE SHIRLEY OF AUGUSTA CO. VA.

A story written by Violet Buntain (sent by our researcher)

George Shirley was born Nov. 23, 1816 in Augusta Co. Va. He was the son of Jonathon and Esther Swope Shirley. Jonathon was the son of Peter.

George married first, Susan Hanger and second, Margaret James.

He was a blcksmith in his native state but sold most of his belonging when he made the long trek north to the banks of the Wabash nearly a century ago.

He settled in Vermillion County and in 1871 built the homestead where the Buntain family still lives. He continued his smithy career in Indiana and only this year have the last traces of his blacksmith shop gone when Mrs. Buntain planted a garden on the site where his smithy stood.

On Feb. 1, 1865 Mr. Shirley held a public sale at his home in Shenandoah Valley section of Virginia and meticulously noted down the prices brought for his various articles, Still intact in the Spencerian script favored in those days the Shirley accounts contain some extremely interesting bits of historic oddities.

For instance if you had been a Virginia farmer anxious to add to your herd of cows, you could have purchased a cow with a bee for $15 and another cow with a white face for the same amount. Pigs, sure, two first choice pigs brought $3.10 each while two more, not so choice, brought $2.65 each. Shirley sold his bay horse for the big sum of $10. And a bale of hay to feed the horse for $1.00.

Seventy-five cents bought a wheelbarrow while two chisels went for 38 cents. A wooden rake sold for six and a quarter cents while a draw knife was sold for six and a half cents. A hand ax went for 62 and a half cents, a churn sold for 25 cents and a cook stove for $8.87.

Even then men were at a loss to describe some articles around the house and these were tagged as "do-do's" but somehow they (or it) brought 30 cents. A coffee mill and box were worth 49 cents to some housewife while she also bought a meal sifter for eight cents.

One intriguing item in the list was labelled "box and contents" 36 cents. A crock of apple butter was sold for 50 cents; a child's craddle for 12 cents; a clock for $1.47; three pictures, 8 cents, fox trap for 31 cents and a Spanish saddle for 50 cents and smoothing irons for 50 cents.

Shirley, his wife and nine children made the journey safely to Indiana and added two more members to the Shirley clan after they arrived. The only tragic note in the move of this Virginia family to Indiana was when Shirley's father decided to join his son in Hoosierland. He made his way to Indiana but at a fording place in the Wabash only eight miles from his son's home he slipped from the tongue of his wagon, fell into the river and was drowned.

Many descendants of the Shirley family still live in Vermillion County, making up one of the many families of pioneer settlers in this area.

Seven Shirley cents bought a wheel-barrow while one wheelbarrow for 19 cents. A wooden rake sold for six and a quarter cents while a draw knife was sold for six and a half cents. A hand ax went for 62 and a half cents, a churn sold for 25 cents and a cook stove for $8.67.

Our Shirleys lived just over the Prince William line from Chapmans Mills. They belonged to the Broad Run Baptist Church in Chapmans Mill. The road from Haymarket over to Marshall is now Virginia state route #55. The road from Middleburg to White Plains is now Virginia Route #17. Fauquier and Alexander Pike on on U.S. Rout 29-24.

Benjamin 1762 and Elizabeth Hughes Shirley were the parents of Nathaniel Shirley who married Nancy Grubbs.

Nathaniel Shirley, Dr. James Latimer and his wife, Catherine Kay, Our link to President Jimmy Carter are buried in a private cemetary on the old Elmer Branyon farm on Rt. #89.

A log cabin built by Nathaniels brother, Mastin ca. 1820 still stands beside the cemetary.

Nathaniel Shirleys wife, Nancy, is in Little River Church Cemetary. President Jimmy Carters grandfather, Rev. James Kay, brother to our Catherine Kay, is also buried there.

Info from Conrad Shirley and Jean Conselya.

I wrote to President Jimmy Carter and invited him to work week after sharing this information with him. I had read he enjoys working on old buildings etc. The following is the reply:

Thank you for your recent letter inviting President and Mrs. Carter to attend the Shirley Anniversary Celebration and to help with the restoration of Obediah Shirley's house.

As much as they appreciate your offering them this opportunity, it will not be possible for President Carter or Mrs. Carter to join you. Regrettably, their schedules are so heavy that they are unable to accept additional commitments.

President and Mrs. Carter asked that I express their gratitude for your fine invitation and send their best wishes.
signed by their director of scheduling.

At least it was an iteresting idea! Wouldn't it have been nice to have the President helping us and interested in the Shirleys

Deeds, Orders, Etc., 1650-52 - no Shirley entries

Record Book 1666-72 - no Shirley entries

Record Book 1710-13 - see below. Also, Record Book 1706-20, see below.

Order Book 1729-37, p. 1 thru 209 (This book contains about 300 pages.) See below

Also, I have recently indexed all the items that show family relationships in OB 1737-43 (with the exception of the presentation of wills or granting of administrations, which I assume are covered thoroughly in Lewis & Booker's Wills and Administrations). I have checked that index, and found one new Shirley entry (an unindexed one). See below

---

Results of above research:

Order Book 1678-99, p. 37-8, 7 June 1679 - List of tythables in Northumberland County - includes Thomas Shirley /only Shirley listed/

This book is not mentioned in above list; I just noticed that you do not have this in the records you received from Bayne, so decided to include it.

Deeds, Orders, 1650-52 - I have recently abstracted this book, and the abstracts include every name mentioned. I read my abstracts and found no Shirley entries.

SN Jan 1988

cont

Record Book 1666-72 - I read every line, not just marginal entries, and found no Shirley entries.

Record Book 1710-13 - As Bayne had already read this book, I simply looked at the entry that she listed in her report. I would like to determine what relationship there was between the Shirley family and Rebecca Price. I have found several records of an Arjalon Price in the 1720's and 1730's, but have not yet decided whether the name Argeland came to the Shirley family from the Price family, or from the Shirley family to the Price family.

Record Book 1706-20 - I also reviewed the deed (p.151) from Jno Adams to John Shirley, and abstracted it as follows:

p. 151 - 13 Feb. 1701/2 - John Adams to John Shirley - 60 acres, located on the left side of the main road from Cone mill toward Quintenoake. One of the corners of this land is "the place which is called the marked hickory by the R. L. Roade, thence along a line of marked trees that parts the land of Richard Shirley and this land."

On the following page, I found this deed:

p. 152 - 12 Mar. 1705/6 - William Grady of Stafford County to John Shirley of Northumberland - one moiety (half) of 100 acres located near the head of Coan River, said land first granted to Col. John Trussell and by him assigned to James Claughton, who assigned it to Robert Seck and John Coutanceau, who divided it. Coutanceau then sold his 50 acres to Henry Moseley, who sold it to Jos. Edmunds whose attorney sold it to John Oliver. Oliver died without heirs, and the land escheated and was bought by Robert Wilson who had married Oliver's widow. They sold the land to Walter Grady, whose heir was the said William Grady. Said land located on King's Creek.

Then, just to round things up, I include here the following:

Virginia Northern Neck Land Grants, 1694-1742, Gertrude E. Gray, Gen. Pub. Co., Inc.; 1987

p. 21 - Richard Sherley, 250 A. near King's Cr., Sw.of Chicacone River, adj. Robert Such /Seck/, John Oldham. 10 Mar. 1697/8.

These records allow us to zero in on the Shirley land (or at least to the general area. See enclosed map.

Order Book 1729-37

p. 40 - See Bayne's records.

p. 49 - 18 Nov. 1731 - Chancery case - Francis Duffe & Christian his wife and Theophilos Miller vs William Gill and Arjalon Price.

p. 66 - 17 Aug. 1732 - John Route being arrested to this Court at the suit of Richard Shurley for the sum of 50 lbs. and not appearing to answer said suit, condition order is granted to plaintiff.

p. 144 - 15 May 1734 - Thomas Shirley and wife Elizabeth acknowledge deeds of lease and release to James Oldham.

/Note that the land of Richard Shirley adjoined the land of John Oldham./

Note: In the deed from John Adams to John Shirley there is a reference to the "R. L. Road." Present day Route 600 is called the Ridge Road because it follows the "ridge line" between the Potomac and Rappahannock Rivers. Therefore, it is probable that the R. L. Road meant the Ridge Line Road. The Quintonoake tract was a large one and was in the area now called Rainswood. Notice the church named Oakland. It is on the Quintonoake tract.

You can see Coan Mill Stream on the map. Notice, however, that the road from the mill joined the Ridge Road at two points. However, at this point, my guess would be that the Shirley land was located on the south side of present day Route 638. (See blue area marked on map.)

At a court held for Northumberland Co. the 11th of April 1748. This account of Adm. of the estate of John Sharley dec'd was returned and by the court ordered to be recorded.

Note the many ways the name Shirley is spelled in these records for the same family or even for the same person.

EDITORS COMMENTS: I would like to know who is George Shirley? He is mentioned in the administration papers of Daniel Shurley and I have seen his name on other papers...not all given here. He is not listed as a son of Daniel. He is also not listed as a brother of Daniel.

In 1699, George Shirley was a surveyor and in 1702 he was a sherriff and J.P. Could George be a brother to John who was born about 1671 and died in 1738, father of Daniel? George Sr. & George Jr.?

Another of the name George appears in Prince William Co. Va. as early as 1783 and is there until at least 1790 era.

A Thomas Shirley was Sheriff in 1707 in Northumberland Co. Va. This is no doubt the son of Thomas Shirley. He was born Oct. 22, 1666 St. Stephens Parish.

So...we have in Northumberland Co. Va. in those earliest of dates:

THOMAS OF ST. STEPHENS PARISH
His children as listed in the records...

1. Thomas b. Oct. 22, 1666
2. Richard b. Aug. 6, 1669 d. 1728 wife Ann
   (1) Thomas b. Feb 1, 1701
   (2) Ann b. Mar 31, 1703
   (3) Richard b. Jan 20, 1705
   (4) Richard b. Feb 8, 1712
3. Phebus b. Apr 14, 1673
4. Mary b. June 8, 1676
5. John who died in 1738 refers to his land as next to his brother, Richard. He is not listed in the records as a son of Thomas. Is this the case with George Shurley too? Is he a son also and not mentioned in the records? They could have been born before coming to St. Stephens Parish, Northumberland or?

[John's children listed on previous pg.]

Our researcher says she is sure that the Shirleys of Prince William Co. Va. are the ones from Northumberland Co. Va.

We do have a good researcher in Pr. Wm. Co. now and she is very busy helping with good research. I should also add she will be working in Fauquier and other counties. We had the pleasure of meeting her, listening to her, and she was very kind to accompany us on our bus as we visited the former sites of the Shirley land. She gave me the map with the properties identified and I shall add this in this issue of the NEWS. She will now begin trying connect families.

From editor...It sure took along time to settle and record John Shirley, Jr. estate. He died in 1742. The child his wife was expecting at the time of his death was Winifred. In 1766, this daughter Winifred would be about 24 years old!

The names of the children above are those known at present. It is hoped that we will discover the names of their other children in the future. The complete lineage is not listed here, merely the names of the earliest family groups living in Virginia of which we presently have knowledge. Future articles about their descendants will refer back to the above family lines.

SHIRLEYS

Northumberland Co...
On July 15, 1696, Richard Shirley petitioned to probate the last will of Thomas Shirley.

March 10, 1697-98, Richard Shirley granted 250 acres near the head of a swamp which runs out of CHICACONE River called "Kings Creek Swamp" adjoining Robert Luck and John Oldham.
(Northern Neck Grants 2 page 236)
[I also have in my records but no source that Richard Shirley had 250 acres on Kings Creek on May 10, 1690].

The Parish for Northumberland was St Stephens Parish. In the parish records of the earliest times we find:
Thomas Shurley and the following children were born to him:

Thomas Shurley b. Oct 22, 1666
Richard Shurley b. Aug 6, 1669
Phebus Shurley b. Apr 4, 1673
Mary Shurley b. June 8, 1676

In later records we find:

Richard Shurley as the father of:
Thomas Shurley b. Feb 1, 1701
Ann Shurley b. Mar 31, 1703
Richard Shurley b. Jan 20, 1705
Richard Shurley b. July 9, 1712
(the first Richard of 1705 must have died and the next son named for him and his father).

John Shurley as the father of:
Ann b. July 31, 1706
John b. Sept 24, 1708
Grace b. Feb 17, 1710
James b. Feb 8, 1712
Daniel b. Mar 24, 1717
Ergilan b. Apr 17, 1721
Newman b. Feb 11, 1719
Mary Aug 1, 1722

These are the only names for the above people I found in the: (St Stephens) Virginia Colonial Abstracts Records of births 1661-1810 Volume 3. Fleet, the arthur, says for us not to accept his interpretation of these miserably written entries as final.

[Updike lists a John Shurley chr. ca. 1671 as a child of Thomas Shurley].

The following names are the earlier names for Northumberland as I have listed with the earlier dates that person is mentioned in Northumberland records. (He is usually mentioned several times in different years).

Dear Mrs. Burrell,

Enclosed are the Shirley records I found on my trip to Richmond plus some other miscellaneous things that I've found elsewhere.

I think perhaps I'll put in my guesses and you can take them for what they are worth. First I would guess your Richard Shirley and family lived in Prince William Co. Va. before going to South Carolina. Note the Virginia Personal Property tax lists. There are no Richard Shirleys in Culpeper nor Fauquier Co. 1782-1784 but there are 2 Richard Shirleys in Prince William. One of these disappears after 1783 which is about the time your Richard Shirley appears in South Carolina. The reason we can find no records for the Shirleys in Prince William Courthouse is that they did not own land (no mention on land tax records nor rent rolls.). Sadly there are no tithable lists for Prince William (or Fauquier or Northumberland) before 1782. Also notice the note from the book on the Nassau-Siegen Immigrants. I did not read the Minute (I think it is a Minute Book rather than an Order Book) Books in Prince William Co. as I don't believe they are indexed. It is possible to read them but very time-consuming. There was a Thomas Shirley in Prince William ca. 1757 according to the Nassau-Siegen book. This book is about the families of the German immigrants to Germanna and Germantown, Va. (1714 on). The note I'm sending you is the only pertainent one on your Shirleys.

'Thos.' is not any any. R.
Mary Graham

Also I looked at the Broad Run Baptist Church records-Fauquier Co. and I don't believe it says that Richard and Peggy Shurley were dismissed to Culpeper. The entry is:

"June 12, 1774

Were added the following members by baptism.

Thomas Hedgers- dismissed to Culpeper
Mary " " " "
Richard Shurley
Peggy Shurley
} no quotation/ditto marks!
Sarah Bayley end of quote.

I don't believe there were any ditto marks for Richard and Peggy Shurley below dismissed to Culpeper. Probably Richard and Peggy Shurley joined the church in 1774. Members other than Shirleys that were "Oct. '83 dismissed south" are Mary Smith, James Smith, Nicholas Ware, Martha Ware, Joseph Smith and Leanah Smith-latter two joined the church the same time as Thomas Shirley (1773). There was quite a migration in Oct. 1783 from Broad Run Baptist Church to "south." I'd guess that the Shirleys lived in the southwestern corner of Prince William Co. (around where Quantico Marine Base is now).

I could find nothing in the Northumberland Co. Records to link your Richard Shirley to those Shirleys of Northumberland Co. I checked probate, deeds and the birth records of St. Stephens parish you already have. I am not familiar with anything else to check in Northumberland Co. but I am not any sort of expert to their records as it is not my territory! Could Richard

DEATH NOTICES IN THE
NORFOLK GAZETTE and PUBLIC LEDGER

1804-1816

Compiled by Mary C. Brown*

This list of death notices was originally prepared as an index to the file of the Norfolk Gazette and Public Ledger in the Norfolk Public Library. Therefore, the dates given are not the days on which individuals died, but are instead the days on which the death notices were printed. Usually, but by no means always, the person mentioned had died only a few days earlier. Inquiries concerning the death notices should be directed to the Norfolk Public Library, Norfolk, Virginia.

A similar list of death notices found in Richmond newspapers of the period was published forty-three years ago; "List of Obituaries from Richmond, Virginia, Newspapers," Virginia Magazine of History and Biography, XX (1912), 282-291, 364-371.

(Let me add right here: Altho' I'm told the Baptists WOULD NOT record marr. its obvious we've had one; Dorcas Dodson was baptised 7 May 1763 with her parents. James Ballenger bapt. June 13, 1768. He had come from [illegible] Culpeper Co. where his fa. Edw. made a will, I'm told. Broad Run is right on the county line- see map.)

(I also find Rev. James Ballenger at the Cascade Church in the Roanoke Baptist Ass'n. which included Pittsylvania Co. and adjoining counties. Halifax was broken into Pittsy. 1767 on petition of its inhabitants. When the Gov. was trying to get people to go to the Piedmont from tidewater and northern states- he offered ten years tax exemption. A lot of these folks must have taken him up on it- for I find John Bennett and Elizz (will 1782-1791 Pittsy.);Thomas Dodson wf. Eliz.(will 1779-1783 Pittsy.) whose dau. Eliz. m. John Bennett, whose dau. Rhoda m. John Creel who had a mill in Pittsy. and who left 3 acres for a Separate & Baptist (Regular) Meeting House near John Creel's Mill; Rev. Lazarus Dodson who performed a number of Pittsy. marriages. I also note that a number of the younger generation left Pittsy. Co. after the Revolution and went to S.C. and then on to Ga. Rev. Lucas of Ga. Genal. Mag. has published his Dodson lines and Margaret Watson in Greenwood Co. Sketches covers some of them as well. I also find deeds from Thos. Sr. and Thos. Jr. in Pittsy. Unfortunately in Va. State Arch. there are no Baptist Church Minutes for each church- just the association.) (James Balenger minister at Cascade Ch. Oct. 1789, June 1790 but NOT Oct. 1790. I don't know if this is the above James, for there are a number of Va. James- but did he also go to S.C.?)

ST. MARY'S COUNTY MARYLAND

[Material sent by new member Ed Duggan]

Those marked "St.Fr./St. Inigoes" are Jesuit sacramental records; they appear in (1). "The Jesuit Missions of St. Mary's Co" Edwin Warfield Beitzell, available from the St. Mary's Co. Historical Society, Leonardtown, Md., and (2). "Catholic Families of Southern Maryland," Timothy J. O'Rourke, Genealogical Publishing Co., Baltimore. It appears these comprise what remains of Catholic sacramental records for the Colonial Period. The original records are housed in Georgetown University.

Before 1707 Richard Shirley married Catherine Miles Wiseman. She was the widow of John Wiseman and the daughter of Francis Miles. St. Mary's Co. Maryland cont...

[THE FOLLOWING IS TAKEN FROM CORRESPONDENCE BETWEEN YOUR EDITOR AND ED DUGGAN, A NEW MEMBER].

Genealogical research in St. Mary's Co. suffers from a sparcity of records. Fires twice destroyed court house records and burned those of a key Parish Church. Other records were destroyed deliberately by the Puritans who gained control at one period of the colonial Maryland government. Yet traces of a Shirley presence can be found.

I belong to the St. Mary's Co. Historical Society and they have nothing on the Shirleys.

Many of the old Jesuit Sacramental records also were lost to a fire. They were stored at St. Thomas Manor which, I think, is just over the border from St. Mary's in Charles County. Fire destroyed many of those records in 1850. The pastor at St. Ignatuis, the parish at St. Thomas, refused to let me look at remaining records, saying that Cardinal Hickey didn't permit church records to be used for genealogical purposes. I'd almost given up on tracing the Shirleys when I saw your item in the "Genealogical Helper".

I'm not terribly interested in proving descent from British nobility; but I do want, if possible, to prove the long-held tradition of Grandmother's family of descent from the originial settlers of Maryland. I grew up in Pennsylvania, but that Maryland ancestry was a matter of some pride. It's never been proved.

Among old letters and photos given to me by my paternal grandmother is a daguerreotype of her paternal grandmother, Henrietta Warthon, nee Shirley. A letter dated in 1852, telling Great Grandfather of Henrietta's death, once contained a lock of her hair. It was red, like Grandmother's. She is buried in the old Mountain Cemetery near Mount Saint Mary's College, Emmitsburg [Fredrick Co.] Md.

Her tombstone bears the information that Henrietta was born in St. Mary's County, Md., that she was 66 when she died and that she was the mother of three sons and one daughter. In the same cemetery are buried her brother John Shirley who died in 1863 and a Richard Shirley, possibly John's son, who was buried March 6, 1822.

In addition to the brother, Henrietta had at least three sisters, one of whom, Elizabeth, was Mrs. John Dabelstein. The others were Sisters Mary Clare and Mary Magdalen Shirley, nuns trained in their vocations by Saint Elizabeth Ann Seton. Clare died in 1846 and is buried in the cemetery at St. Joseph's Provincial House, Emmitsburg. Magdalen Ann Shirley was born about 1801 and died in the 1870's, buried in New York.

Growing up I often heard my grandmother and her sister, grandaunt Ida Kephart, refer to their grandaunt "Betsy Dabelstein" She and John Dabelstein were married at St. John the Evangelist Catholic Church. Frederick (City) in 1821. According to Aunt Ida, John Dabelstein became a judge in Cumberland, Md.

Based on militia, voting and census records of the later 18th century, Robert Shirley's sons can be identified as Ignatuis, Bennet, George and Joshua. George died in the Revolution. The other three headed households in St. Mary's Co. in the 1790 census. Joshua, however, soon left St. Mary's Co. He is not among the Shirley whose names appear on the 1794 St. Mary's Co. militia roster. Ignatius and Bennett are on that list. So are two other male Shirleys, Richard and John, whom I believe to have been sons of Ignatius Shirley, and who migrated later to Frederick Co. Md.

In a letter dated in the 1850-60's reference is made to Lizzie Shirley's brother "Nace" who went to New Jersey, fathered three children and died "without his poor mother knowing if he were in his church or not."

I believe Ignatius Shirley was the father of my great great grandmother, Henrietta Warthon, nee Shirley, but can't prove it.

2nd LETTER FROM ED TO YOUR EDITOR

April 2, 1990

I'll never be able to thank you enough for the data you sent, I've read it, reread it and read it again; and I believe our line can be traced back to the first Richard Shirley (of the 1737 will) and the the Norris family's immigrant progenitor, Thomas. Since I don't recall mentioning the name NORRIS when I first wrote you, I'm amazed that you sent precisely what I needed. You must be clairvoyant.

Thomas, son of John and Ann Wheatley Norris, Tom's daughter probably by Ann Heard, was born in 1756. She has to be the Mary Norris who married Ignatius Shirley, almost surely a son of Robert, in November 1775. I have long felt, based on an analysis of the 1790 and 1800 St. Mary's County census and what I know of Great Great Grandmother's siblings that Ignatius and Mary Norris Shirley were her parents.

You asked for my thoughts about the John Shirley [the ancestor of your editors husband] born in 1728, being a son or grandson of Richard Shirley of the 1737 will. I think son. Those three younger sons were, I believe, a good bit younger than their half brother, Richard. Since John was the last named in the will, he likely was the youngest. That he was nine years old in 1737 doesn't seem too young to me. Because the will gives the leased land first to the widow and to the boys at her death. I tend to feel they were all three minors. Remember, the widow was young enough to remarry.

The key phrase in that will is "land held under lease." That says to me that the home plantation, owned property, was entailed to the eldest son, Richard. I'd bet those three younger boys ended up with next to no inheritance. No wonder they headed for the wilds of Frederick Co. Md.

3rd LETTER FROM ED DUGGAN

Your letters provide not only facts but food for thought in lucullan proportions. The response to my questions on the religions of the 17th century Shirleys and possible emigrants almost overwhelmed me.

I think your fix on Isfield and Wiston for their origins is dead-on target.

The Wiston family [of England] appears to be the best ancestral bet for our oldest Maryland line. Given names, probable dates of birth and timely financial ruin match up with early traces in Maryland. The household of Sir Thomas Shirley the Younger seems particularly fitted to dovetail with our Marylanders. The second wife was Judith BENNET and the cadets were Robert and Richard. We have Roberts, Richards and, in the 1790 and 1800 censuses, even a BENNET SHIRLEY in St. Mary's Co. Maryland in the century after the Wiston family's economic collapse. It's almost circumstantially close enough to claim them.

? Is John b. 1728, my husbands ancestor, the John mentioned in Richard's will 1737 St. Mary Co. Maryland ?. He would be 9 years old!

One confusing item still remains about Mary Norris Shirley. When she died, the record says she was the daughter of Thomas Norris, but a John Norris claims Ignatuis Shirley as his son-in-law.

From your editor.....

You may recall my husbands ancestor is George Shirley b. 1761 Pa. (& John 1728) married Ruhannah Norris. She was the daughter of Joseph Norris B. 1729 in Washington County Maryland.

[The following taken from the NORRIS NEXUS]

According to one descendant (Racer, 1913), Joseph's father was John Norris and had at least two children, Joseph and John Norris, Jr.; A later, unknown author begins the genealogy of this family with Joseph Norris and he maintains that the Norris family was of English origin and settled in Maryland where it is said that the first one recorded in the State Archives is Thomas Norris in 1642. Although not directly asserted, the implication is that Joseph Norris was a descendent of the earliest Norris colonists in Maryland.

Apr. May 1990

Joseph Norris, Sr. was born Jan. 11, 1728/29 in or near Sharpsburg in present day Washington County, Maryland, but which at that time was Baltimore County.

Racer thinks John Norris was of Scotch-Irish descent (i.e., of a family of Scots transplanted to Ireland by the English at some point, probably in the seventeenth century).

Editors comments..... I am sure that you can tell by my past statements, articles etc. that I believe the St. Mary County Maryland Shirleys play a key role in the Shirley family of the colonial period. I believe they will tie in with the Shirleys of Northumberland Co. Va. as well as from all appearances, my husbands family who are first found in Antietum, Washington County Maryland before going to Bedford/Huntington Co. Pennsylvania.

I will rest the St. Mary family group for awhile and concentrate elsewhere. I think my points have been made!

(see page 6 and 7 of July '85 NEWS).

WHERE DID ROGER SHURLEY (who made a will Dec. 7, 1694 in Kent Co (Pa.) Delaware COME FROM???

Roger Sherly of Talbot Co. Maryland bought land in Kent Co. Pa. (Delaware now) from Thomas Hethard, called "EXETOR" part of " OUSBEY"100 acres, Nov. 10, 1693

Roger Sherly sold this land to Stephen Simons July 5, 1694.

Research shows Shirleys in some of the other counties in Maryland in those early days as follows:

CALVERT CO. MARYLAND

Richard Shirley
Here in 1693-1695 and well enough established and respected to be assigned to appraise and take inventory of an estate in 1695, as well as to witness a will in 1693.

There seems to be no further evidence of Richard Shirley in Calvert Co. after this time.

(Note: In my files under Calvert Co. Maryland, I was told that the AVIS family was in Calvert Co. Md. Dorcas AVIS married Walter Shirley about 1726 and they lived in Berkeley Co. Va (now West Va.). Could this Walter Shirley be closely related to Richard? The Avis family came from Lincolnshire England according to my source).

ANN ARUNDEL CO. MARYLAND

James Shirley and wife, Katherine, are mentioned for the years 1703-1708. No children are mentioned in the records.

PRINCE GEORGE CO. MARYLAND

George Shirley and wife Mary (Here in 1726).

ST. MARYS CO. MARYLAND

Richard Shirley and wife Katherine here as early as 1705.

SOMERSET CO. MARLAND & WOCESTER CO. MD.

James Shirley here as early as 1730

Refer back to last issue...July '85 on page 13.

BUCKS CO. PA.

Oathes of allegiance...Robert Shirley Senior and Robert Shirley Junior of 1778., Springfield Twp. Bucks Co. Pa.

Who is this Robert Shirley? It would be my opinion that this is the same Robert Shirley who we find later in Indiana Co. Pennsylvania.

Robert Shirley was born May 15, 1735 in Eastern Penn. (dates from Carol Hopping). He married Susannah Baker who was born May 11, 1742. Robert served as a soldier in the Revolutionary War. He came to Indiana Co. in 1792 from Conococheague Valley and settled in Conemaugh Township two miles from Saltsburg.

Their oldest son, John, was born Dec. 14, 1771 BUCKS CO. PA.

It would be Robert Jr. who married Susan Baker would it not? They took their oathes in 1778! Therefore Robert Sr. must be his father!

In Franklin Co. Pa. we find Thomas Shirley who in his pension papers said he was born in Springfield Twp. BUCKS CO. PA. July 10, 1746. Is he an uncle to Robert Shirley who married Susannah Baker??? And brother to Robert Shirley Sr.?

ANOTHER EXCITING STORY WHICH HAPPENED TODAY! (by Betty Shirley)...........

Today as I was typing this issue of the NEWS, I received a long distance call. The gal identified herself as Eileen Shirley. She had obtained my name and phone number from Anna Husbands in Mississippi this summer. (Anna helped me get the Jackson Miss. meeting together this summer). Eileen said she was in Miss. and picked up a newspaper and was reading about family reunions in it and about our trip to England which she is interested in. As we talked about who her line was, I knew this Seth Shirley was a name I heard before. She referred to Sweetwater, Texas and I reached over while talking to another gentlemans file and it was his branch. I told her about this gentleman and their relationship and that he is a pilot for United Airlines. She was thrilled....all in a days work! I called him tonight and she had called him already!

MARYLAND SHIRLEYS

Robert Shirley and Robert Wiseman arrived in Maryland in 1634 with the first two ships, the ARK and the DOVE. (from Sidelights of Maryland History, by Richardson; from Society of ARK and Dove).

John Wiseman, in his will, December 6, 1703, St. Mary's Co. Maryland, bequeathed "one-half land I purchased from Hugh Hopewell to my eldest son John Wiseman, and upper-most half of the land purchased from Hugh Hopewell to my youngest son , Robert Wiseman,(when both reach the age of 21 years)." This land, 200 acres in Harvey Hundred was surveyed for John Wiseman in 1665 and named "Batchellors Hopewell." In 1717 Rent Rolls it was in possession of John Wiseman's widow, now married to RICHARD SHIRLEY. John Wiseman, in his will, names his wife as Catherine Wiseman,(from St. Mary's Co. Historical Society and Hall of Records, Annapolis, Maryland.

SN Jan 1982

Richard Shirley and Catherine/Katherine Wiseman were married before September 20, 1705 because Richard Shirley acted as executor of John Wiseman's estate for his wife, Catherine,(from Hall of Records; Accounts and Inventories, 1705, Vol 25, page 52.

John Wiseman (the son), St. Mary's Co. Maryland, made his will, dated January 26, 1716. He names his father, Richard Shirley, as executor, and his mother Katherine and his brother Richard Shirley among his recipients of his estate. from Maryland Wills, by Baldwin, Vol. IV, page 73.

Richard Shirley made his will April 4, 1737, St. Mary's Co. Maryland; probated November 19, 1737, in which he names his wife Sarah, executor, and her sons George, William and John recipients of part of the estate and the remainder to his four sons: Richard(son by Katherine Wiseman), George, William and John to inherit that part. (from Register of Wills, St, Mary's Co. Maryland. Inventory of the Estate of Richard Shirley made: April 14, 1739 by executors, John Dial and his wife Sarah Shirley Dial. (COULD THIS NAME REALLY BE DALE???).

Richard Shirley, son of Richard Shirley and Katherine Wiseman Shirley, made his will April 16, 1747; probated July 5, 1747. He did not name his wife but asked that she follow advice of Robert Greenwell in settling his debts and estate. He bequeathed to his son Robert Shirley land on the "east side of Westare Branch that leads into the St. Mary's River." His wife was to receive "the remaining part of the Plantation and Mill." (continued next page)

from Reigister of Wills, St. Mary's Co. Leonardtown, Maryland. Greenwell was probably a family relative. His half sister, Catherine Wiseman was married to a Greenwell, (from will of John Wiseman, the son.)

Richard, George, William and John Shirley were sons of Richard Shirley, his first wife Katherine Wiseman and his then present wife Sarah.

Richard Shirley, the first mentioned son, died in St. Mary's Co. Md. before July 5, 1747, leaving a son Robert Shirley. (Could he be the Robert Shirley who married Susan Baker? See page 57 of your EARLY SHIRLEY LINEAGES book. Also front page of the January 1979...Vol 1 #3 . Could the William and John be the ones found in Bedford Co./Huntington Co. Pa.? [William went to Scotts Co. Ky.] see page 20 EARLY SHIRLEY LINEAGES...April 1979 NEWS page 8 Middle Column and October 1980 NEWS page 7 left column. For John....see page 50 EARLY SHIRLEY LINEAGES and page 8 of October 1981 NEWS also October 1980 NEWS page 8.

There was a George Shirley who died August 24, 1778. He was in the 3 rd Regiment Maryland Line in the American Revolution. He may be the George mentioned above.

NOTE:

Please review April 1981 NEWS front page column 2 and also our last issue October 1981 page 8 second column. I have some info sent in by Maurine Struthers on the Mc Guire question. She writes:"The most prominent Mc Guire family in Maryland stem from two Michaels, Jr. and Sr. Michael Jr. was born 1717 and was known as Captain. He managed to accumulate large land holdings. He fought in the French and Indian War and even headed militias during the American Revolution. In April 1767, Capt. Mc Guires name appears on the Frederick Co. Md. Militia with Capt. Thomas Norris. (note my husbands ancestor George b. 1761 Pa.[son of either John b. 1728 or William who went to Scotts Co. Ky.] was married to Ruhannah Norris daughter of Joseph and Mary (Moody) Norris who came to Bedford from Hagerstown, Washington Co. Maryland...from page 337 History of Huntington and Blair Counties Pa/ by Africa in 1883.) A Thomas Norris was a witness to Richard Sirleys will of 1747 in St. Mary's Co. Maryland. cont

In the Augusta Co. Va. Records the names of the Grubbs and the Hughes are associated with the Shirleys. The Hughes and Grubbs also went to Abbeyville Co. South Carolina and the Grubbs also went to Kentucky with that group of Shirleys. Other Shirley names found in Augusta Co. Va. records are, Valentine,Peter,Jonathon Patrick,William,Adam,Felty,Michael,Jacob,Henry, before 1800. There may be another name or two I have missed. If so, please let me know.

Is Robert who came to Maryland in 1633/34 with Robert Wiseman the progenitor of the Northumberland Co. Va. Shirleys? St. Mary's Co. Maryland is just across the Potomac River from Northumberland Co. Va. We find Richard in Northumberland Co. Va. 1690 on land adjoining land of Robert Luck and John Oldham. NOTE: John (father of Thomas and John of Adair Co. Ky.) of Spotsylvania Co. Va. deeded 9 acres of land to Samuel Luck. In April 1981 issue of the NEWS page 8, first column, Oldhams related to the Shirleys of Barren Co. Ky.

Northumberland- 1742-Adm. of estate paid to (lists several names)..... and John Oldham, William Gill, (another name associated with the Shirleys and Dales of Barren Co. Ky.), Grace Shirley, Daniel and Argeland Shirley. This corresponds with the article on page 8, first column of April 1979 NEWS. In Nov. 1768 Daniel estate settlement mentions wife Judith and also mentions Elizabeth and George Shirley. In 1702 George Shirley is Sheriff and Justice of Peace, also 1708. In 1699 and 1707 he is a surveyor.

The Shirleys of Fauquier County and Prince William Co. Va. are the same group of Shirleys who went to South Carolina and some of the South Carolina Shirleys went on to Kentucky, while part of this same group of South Carolina Shirleys w to Georgia and to Alabama,etc. They seem to be part of the Northumberland Co.Va. group.

The Dale family is another group of people who married into the Shirleys of Barren Co. Ky. many, many times. (see April 1981 NEWS page 4 first column.) NOTE: Abraham Dales' son, William married Frances Phillips.(Could she be related to Capt. Phillips of Bedford Co. Pa.?). After Williams death Frances moved to Bedford Co. Va. to be with her relatives. Abraham Dale was the father of Robert Dale who died in Prince William Co. Va. 1779. He is also the father of Reuben Dale born 1728 who died in Richmond Co. Va. 1768. Reuben married Hannah Phillips who was the daughter of Tobias and Hannah (Goad) Phillips according to family theory. Hannah was probably sister of Frances Phillips Dale. Another son of Abraham Dale was Thomas who died in 1772 Richmond Co. Va. He married Alice Dodson daughter of Fortunatus and Alice (Goad) Dodson. Alice moved to Woodford Co.

Kentucky after Thomas Dales death. This County was where a large group of Dales lived. Note, Scott Co.Ky. was formed from Woodford Co. in 1792.

Reuben Dale and Hannah Phillips were the parents of JOHN 1747, GEORGE 1749, ISAAC born June 17, 1751, ABRAHAM 1753, WILLIAM 1757, ROBERT 1760, and Betty 1764. George, Isaac, Abraham, William and Robert all moved to Woodford Co. Ky. as did their mother Hannah Dale. George soon moved with his large family to Indiana where he died in Hamilton Co. Isaac took his family to Barren Co. Ky. where he died in 1820. Robert Dale and his family moved to Mo. before 1820.

The third paragraph on page 4 of the April 1979 NEWS about John Dale and Peter Goad is the above John born 1747, son of Reuben and Hannah Dale. In paragraph 5, 6, and 7, the subject of Valentine Sevier and William Shirley being arrested in Va. for riotous behavior. I was exploring the idea of where the name of Valentine Shirley may have come from. We find there were people in the vicinity whose last name was Valentine. I did receive a interesting reply about Valentine Sevier. He and his brother John were in Washington Co. Tenn. about 1780. This was during The Battle of King's Mountain.[Note: There was a John Shirley in that Battle too!] Also in Washington Co. Tn. was John, Robert, Thomas and Edward Shirley 1778/1801. John Shirley was from Watuga settlement about 1770. Watuga was in what now is Washington Co.

Now back to the Dale family... The name Reuben and Isaac Shirley come from the Dale family. It is used over and over again in those branches of the family. The Isaac Dale family can be found on the back of the April 1979 issue of the NEWS.

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE OATHS OF ALLEGIANCE

1778

Adult white males were required to take an Oath of Allegiance to the revolutionary government of Maryland according to a law passed by the General Assembly in the February Session, 1777. Inasmuch as the 1776 census for St. Mary's County was destroyed by fire the following list of some eleven hundred adult males serves as an important genealogical aid.

The Oath as follows is taken from the return of Robert Armstrong:

"I do swear, that I do not hold myself bound to yield any allegiance or obedience to the King of Great Britain, his heirs or successors, and that I will be true and faithful to the State of Maryland, and will, to the utmost of my power, support, maintain, and defend the freedom and independence thereof, and the Government as now established, against all open enemies, and secret and traitorous conspiracies, and will use my utmost endeavours to disclose and make known to the Governor, or some one of the Judges or Justices thereof, all treasons and traitercus conspiracies, attempts, or combinations, against this State or the Government thereof, which may come to my knowledge. So help me God."

A few names which did not appear in earlier published versions were found in copies of the original lists kindly provided by the Maryland Historical Society in Baltimore. Two reproductions appear below of names of ancestors of the author. John Leaton [Layton] was incorrectly rendered John Seaton and Joseph Tucker appeared as Joseph Tewkes in earlier published versions. A comparison with other capital L's on the same page, as in Lancaster, suggests that the name is correctly John Leaton. With Joseph Tucker a comparison was made with other capital T's, u's, c's, k's, e's, and terminal r's.

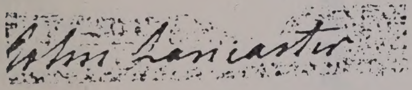
Joseph Tucker



John Lancaster

Dear Mrs. Burrell:

In Updike's book, she refers to Andrea once or twice. He was a South Carolina genealogist, and even compiled eligibility lists for some of the ladies' organizations. He is deceased now, but all his records are in possission of his sister, Miss Connie Andrea, 4204 Devine Street, Columbia, S.C. Miss Andrea is a good friend of mine, and thru the years she has rented me any file she has. Recently I rented the Shirley file, made Xerox copies of the pages, and here they are. Some of this material you already have; some of it I found in Archives; some of it I will still find in Archives and in South Caroliniana Library; some of it is new.

I'll see if I can find the records on Turkey Creek Baptist Church. They may be in the S.C. Baptist Historical depository over at Furman University, Greenville, S.C. or they may be in South Caroliniana Library in Columbia.

I'll let you know.

Yours truly,

THE CAROLINA GENEALOGIST Vol. 14

TURKEY CREEK BAPTIST CHURCH

These minutes begin with the constitution of the church in 1785, and have been transcribed from microfilm reel #2103 published by the Historical Commission, Southern Baptist Convention, Nashville, Tenn.

The location of Turkey Creek Meeting House can be seen in the 1820 Mill's Atlas map of Abbeville County published in THE CAROLINA GENEALOGIST issue 10. Turkey Creek appears in the north east corner of the map, on the road from Abbeville to Ware's Bridge over the Saluda River. Hogskin Creek, and Little River, mentioned farther on in the minutes, lie north north east of Abbeville.

A cemetery survey of the graveyard of Little River Baptist Church has been prepared and published; it is for sale by the church.

We cannot be sure that the location of Turkey Creek Meeting House shown in Mill's map is the same as the original site when the congregation was constituted in 1785, but surnames of many persons who are listed in the minutes can be found among those shown on the Mill's map.

comment: So we need Little River church records. Members accepted by letter in February, 1798, should tell us who John Shirley's sister is — or is it Elizabeth's sister? Wonder if such records exist? There might be other details on family members.

The group who went to see Nancy Hanks is interesting, too. John Nash, husband of Polly Harrison Long - dau. of Reuben, son of Bromfield Long of Culpeper. Wills show Nimrods, Reubens and Gabriels galore.

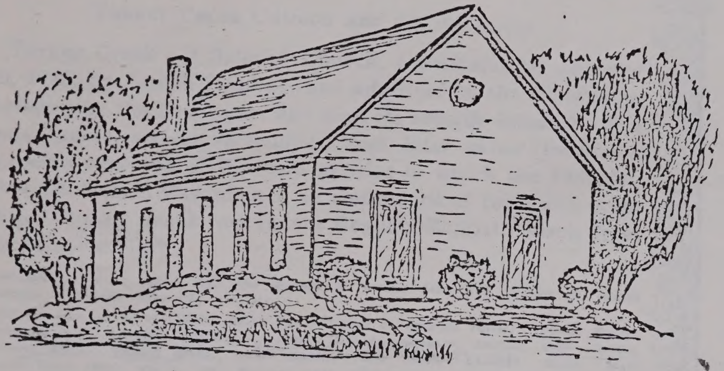
further distinguished by having unusually full records of its proceedings. This church is situated between Ware Shoals and Shoals Junction about 300 yards above the highway linking these places. It is just over the line in Abbeville County, but much of its membership in the early days, as at present, was made up of residents of what is now Greenwood County, providing the basis for our particular interest. The area was settled prior to the Revolution, and Saluda (Greenville) Presbyterian Church, only about a mile from Turkey Creek, was started about 1773, as previously noted.



Existing minutes of Turkey Creek Church begin: "A record of the proceedings of the regular Baptist Church of Christ. Constituted by Joseph Redding on Turkey Creek South Carolina State January 22nd., 1785 and down to this day. The names of the members which were constituted were as follows: Thomas Foster, Joseph Smith, James Smith, Thomas Shirley, Benjamin Northcutt, Nicholas Ware, Sarah Foster, Lenannah Smith, Mary Smith, Mary Shirley, Margaret Shirley, Martha Ware, Elizabeth Hall, Sarah Smith and [?]." The last name is illegible.

Names are written in two columns, men in one, women in the other. This segregation by sexes was also followed in the seating in almost all early churches—men on one side, women on the other. Some churches had separate entrances for men and women.

Two articles of the church covenant probably are typical. One reads: "We do Promise to Relieve Distresses of the Brethren of this Church that may fall out; in a course of Providence, by fire or other Unseen Displeasure." Another states: "We further agree that no member of this Church shall undertake any matter or thing that appears to be attended with more than Ordinary Difficulty without Consulting the Members of this Church." At the first business meeting, Feb. 12, 1785, Nicholas Ware and Thomas Shirley had a dispute about a land boundary "laid before the church." From subsequent references, the matter seems to have been amicably settled.

At that first meeting, additional members were received "by letter": Joseph Redding and Anna his wife, John Shirley and Elizabeth his wife, Luke Hanks and Nancy his wife, and Elizabeth Grubs. The name Nancy Hanks suggests the mother of Abraham Lincoln, but that Nancy is reported to have been born in Rockingham County, Va., and married to Thomas Lincoln in 1806. The Turkey Creek Church records note that its member, Nancy Hanks, was cited to appear before the congregation in May 1787 and in August was "excluded" from membership.

Redding was called to be pastor of Turkey Creek Baptist Church in May 1785 and remained until 1789 when he and family removed to Kentucky, accompanied by several other families of the community. Joseph Smith, John Hall, Jacob Neal, Lewis Dernesse, Michael Henderson and their wives were listed as leaving the church for Kentucky at that time. No regular pastor is mentioned after Redding until 1804 when the Rev. Arthur Williams, who lived as a young man in the Stony Point section, was called and served until his death May 28, 1860.

The church in those days regulated lives of members in many ways. Price-fixing was one. Minutes for 1786 report unanimous adoption of a resolution "that no member of this church shall sell corn for more than two shillings per bushel nor wheat for more than three shillings per bushel." At another time "Brother Durham" asked if it was lawful "to swap horses." The congregation voted that it was. The vote was "no" to this question: "a member wants to know if it is lawful to lend his gun to a neighbor to go to a shooting match." "Sister S." was cited to appear on a charge of mixing tallow and beeswax and selling the product as beeswax. She admitted her fault and promised not to do so again. A man was cited for using wrong measurements at his mill.

Repairs to the meeting house were approved in February 1797 but curiously, erection of the original structure is not recorded. Mention of a collection "for church expenses" is not noted until 1806, and most members gave 25 cents each. A special collection also was made then to buy "a new book," and nine men were listed as contributing 12½ cents apiece for that.

them, the churches of this period are in the main treated under the modern county in which they are located. However, one group which stands out in its several ramifications as transcending county lines, is discussed as a typical example of the church government and polity of the Baptist congregations of the day and of the growth and separate constitution of "arms" or branches of the parent body.

TURKEY CREEK CHURCH AND ITS BRANCHES

Turkey Creek (of Saluda) Church, constituted on January 29, 1785, by Joseph Redding, and admitted to the Charleston Association the next year, has kept its records intact.[22] The constituents, sixteen in number, and later other members, signed a covenant of fourteen articles in which the Philadelphia Confession was adopted as a standard of faith and practice. Turkey Creek was thus a Regular Baptist church from its constitution.[23]

Meetings were generally held on the Friday before the second Lord's Day in each month until June 10, 1786, when it was concluded to have meetings for church business on Friday before the first Lord's Day and the Saturday and Sunday following for public worship. On April 6, 1787, the meeting "appointed the Second Lords day in May for Communion, the Friday before we appoint to afflict ourselves by fasting because of the coldness of Religion and calamities of the times." Somewhat the same occurred in 1788 when the church made the "Saturday before the 4th Lords day in April a day of fasting and prayer on account of the Coldness of religion, that the Lord would revive his work and that truth and Love may abound." It was decided on April 10, 1789, to change the meetings from Friday to Saturday before the second Sabbath in each month, the Sunday service to begin at ten o'clock "while the days keep a tolerable length." Left without a minister in 1789, the church "propos'd to keep up our meetings on the Lords day though in our weak and lame condition," and by January, 1790, altered the meetings to the third Lord's Day in every month to accommodate the new pastor. Business sessions, it was resolved on October 9, 1801, should have no sermon preached before business was over. The meetings of April, May, and June, 1792, began with singing as well as prayer. Communion seasons, preceded by fasting and prayer, were at first especially appointed, but quarterly communion became the rule after May, 1793. A definite fund was established for the purpose, and a unanimous decision of April 11, 1794, fixed a quarterly communion season. The church proclaimed a special fast on July 8, 1797. The revival brought no increase of services.

Rev. Joseph Redding, received by letter on February 12 and called to the pastorate on May 7, 1785, served until August 8, 1789. During his ministry he was the spokesman of the congregation, representing them in association, and re-

KILLING OF CAPTAIN BEATY AND CALEB W. SHIRLEY

After Bill Anderson was killed in Ray Co., Mo. Oct. 27, 1864, his first lieutenant, Arch Clements, assumed command of the entire force of some three hundred Confederates and guerrillas (Clements at this time was only about twenty years of age) and pledged to cross the Missouri in forty-eight hours. Reaching the western part of Carroll Co., he sent out a scouting party in the direction of Carrollton. This party came to the residence of Captain William Beaty, west of town. Beaty was eating dinner. At his house was a member of his company, Caleb W. Shirley (son of Jesse and Jane (Witt) Shirley and grandson of James Shirley who died July 23, 1801 in Barren Co., Ky. - see April issue, page 6). Both Beaty and Shirley had been taken prisoners at the surrender of Carrollton, had been paroled, and their paroles were in their pockets. But no sooner did they see the guerrillas than they knew their lives were in danger and, springing from their seats, they sought to make their escape. The guerrillas shot Shirley in the hip as he left the door, bringing him to the ground. Then they pursued Beaty, and just as he was climbing a fence--shot and killed him. Returning to the house where Shirley lay, the wounded man begged for his life, saying, "I am a paroled prisoner, I have my parole in my pocket if you wish to see it." "What do you suppose we care for your #$%@¢& parole?" was the reply. Two or three pistol shots rang out and Shirley lay a corpse. The guerrillas told Mrs. Beaty to go out and see about her husband because he fell off the fence and broke his neck. The guerrillas then left.

* Who is this SR. SHIRLEY who died in 1794? Is this Richard, husband of Margaret, who is supposedly the father of Thomas (m. Mollie Grubbs) and James (m. Mary McMekin)? This group settled in Barren Co. Kentucky in the 1790's.

Any feed back on this subject will be apreciated.

It can't be John Shirley who married Elizabeth Barmore as he died in 1808.

Thought you would find these events interesting about their lifestyles in this era.

Additional information about the people at Turkey Creek Baptist church can be found in Oct. 1979 NEWS pages 3-5. Lists of many people who were not Shirleys are also given as well as information about the church.

JOHN SHIRLEY OF S.C.

[Taken from Sue Henderson book]

The first proven ancestor of our side of the family was JOHN SHIRLEY. Tradition is that he was a younger brother of Benjamin Shirley (who married Elizabeth Hughes), born around 1768 in Prince William County, Virginia. He may have been the son of Richard and Margaret Shirley, who were dismissed from the Broad Run Baptist Church June 12, 1774, Fauquier County, Virginia, to Culpepper County, Virginia. On June 22, 1785, they were among the charter members of the Old Turkey Creek Baptist Church in Abbeville, South Carolina. John and his wife, Elizabeth Fields, are also listed as members of the Turkey Baptist Church in Abbeville, South Carolina.

On June 23, 1832, Benjamin and Obediah Shirley applied for letter of aministration on the estate of John Shirley and on October 24, 1832, adm. adm. to Obediah Shirley. On October 4, 1832, Obediah was made guardian of Loranzo (Loving), Catherine, Arnis and Elizabeth Ann Shirley minor children of John Shirley, dec'd. Final settlement. Elizabeth Ann Shirley married prior to Feb. 2, 1832, Robert Chamblee. The wid. one third and seven distibutees.

JOHN SHIRLEY b. ca. 1776 probably Prince William County Virginia. Died Feb. 1832 Abbeville, South Carolina. Married Elizabeth Fields.

Mrs. Gid A. Burrell

Amarillo, Texas 79107

Dear Mrs. Burrell:

After reading your letter of 11 October, I had to laugh when you said for me to take it slow and not break my neck doing this research. I'm taking it slow, and this old neck will not break at the pace I'm going.

I had asked Wofford College Library here to order, thru interlibrary loan, the film of the Turkey Creek Baptist Church records from the S.C. Baptist Historical Association in Furman University, Greenville, S.C., before your letter came advising me to take all winter if necessary. The film has come and, since there is a time limit on it, I went ahead and searched the film, so it could be returned to Furman.

Turkey Creek Baptist Church, Churchbook, Abbeville County, S.C., 1785-1869, Pub. #2103. Constituted by Joseph Redding 22 Jan 1785. The first list of members contained seventeen:

Thomas Foster 1	Sarah Foster 9
Joseph Smith 2	Leanna Smith 10
James Smith 3	Mary Smith 11
Thomas Shirley 4	Mary Shirley 12
Richard Shirley 5	Margret Shirley 13
Archabald Shirley 6	Susannah Shirley 14
Benjamin Natheal ? 7	Martha Ware 15
Nichelus Bare 8	Elizabeth ??? 16
	??? Smith 17

(The above was the way the names appeared in the book. Whether the lady opposite the man was his wife, I do not know.)

Another list later of abt 75 names included Thomas Shirley Elizabeth Shirley
Dorcas Shirley
Elizabeth Shirley
John Shirley
Richard Shirley
Lydda Shiley (could be Shirley)
Mary Shirley

Going from page to page, line by line, here are the Shirleys:

12 Feb Jhon Shirley and wife Elizabeth
Thomas Shirley dispute over land on which he lived
Thomas Shirley drunk
Richard Shirley drunk and excluded (Boy, have you got some kinfolks!)
Richard Shirley restored 10 Sept(Not such bad kinfolks after all.)

1794. Thos Shurly, Richard Shurly, John Shurly.
12 Sept Sister Shurly died.(No first name).
1798 Thos Shirley and wife, John Shirley and wife and sister applied for letters.
(Entries for about each following year but no more Shirleys until 1807, when it named Thos Shirley of Little River. So it appears some of the Shirleys went to another church.
1814 Thos Shirley from Little River.
(I went on thru the churchbook, year by year, month by month, up to 1850, but found no more Shirleys. So it looks like they moved to Little River or elsewhere.... These were only Shirley names, I copied, but I also copied each and every name up to 1850, and have them on 4½ notebook pages. If you want them, to try to find collateral lines, I'll be glad to Xerox them for you.

According to your letter, you want wills, estates, deeds from the counties that made up Old 96 District. Those counties were Abbeville
Edgefield
Greenville
Laurens
Newberry
Pendleton
Spartanburg
Union

I can copy first from the indexes to all the above counties. Or I can start with one county and abstract all wills, estates, deeds in that county- then go on to the next county. So let me know if

1. You want the indexes to Shirley in all counties of 96 Dist. or
2. You want abstracts of all Shirley records in one county, then another co.

Dear Mrs. Burrell:

Here are the results of my searches in the Royal Grant Book, 1696-1776, as found in S.C. Archives in Columbia, S.C. This is the book that was in use the first time I searched for you, and the same book I forgot to search next time I was in Archives:

Royal Grants, 1696-1776

Sherley, Shirley: Catharine, 2nd Creek, 150 acres, Bk 6 page 48, 4 July 1754
John, Craven Co., 350 ac., 29-144, 2 April 1773
John, Craven Co., 200 ac., 15-22, 28 Aug 1767 (Written in pencil is Raiburns Creek).
Thomas, Craven Co., 650 ac., 26-634, 26 Sept 1772 (Written in pencil is Island Cr., Pacolet River).
Thomas, Craven Co., 500 ac., 26-635, 26 Sept 1772 (Written in pencil is Wateree Creek.)
Thomas, Craven Co., 500 ac., 26-636, 26 Sept 1772, (written in pencil is Roberts Creek, North Pacolet River).
Thomas, Craven Co., 500 ac., 26-637, 26 Sept 1772. (Written in pencil is Roberts Creek, North Pacolet River.)

While searching the Anderson County Deeds, Vol. A, 1789-1792, on microfilm for another client, I ran across a Shirley, and went ahead and got it, since Anderson Co. (Old Pendleton) was in the Old 96 District:

Vol. A page 254. 19 Aug 1789... James Shirley, planter, living in Abbeville Co., to William Anderson Junr. living in Pendleton Co... 100 pounds for 300 acres in 96 Dist., above ancient boundary line, on Beaver Dam Creek of Rocky River, bdd by vacant lands... Plat of the grant to James Shirley...
Signed James (his X mark) Shirley and Mary (X) Shirley.
Wit: James Moore, Thomas Shirley, John Moore.

In A-256 was a similar deed but it had three interpretations:
1. James Shirley and wife Mary.
2. James Shirley and wife Maryane.
3. James Shirley and wife Margaret.

Depending upon how you read the deed, the wife could have been Mary or Maryane or Margaret.

I'll start on the 96 Dist. records ere long.

Dear Mrs. Burrell:

Attached is answer from Furman University, Baptist Historical Collection.

In Wills of Old Pendleton District, S.C., Book C, 1791-1798, on microfilm in S.C. Archives: no Shirley listed.

In Anderson Wills, Vol. 1, 1791-1834:

In Pendleton Book C: John Shirley, p 94. same as above, but confusing with above Book C Wills, 1791-1798.

Grants, 1695-1776. (This book was being used by a professor from Winthrop College, Rock Hill, S.C. He had come down with an assistant and they had this grant book, along with other books, papers, documents, spread over a table, and they were busy "pouring over" the grants in this big book. The Archives clerk told me to go over to the professor, interrupt him, and ask for the grant book. But I didn't have the heart to interrupt anyone so wrapped up in what he was doing. I'll search that grant book on my next trip.)

A "SHIRLEY" FILE

By Edna Perry Deckler

In her book, PERRY AND ALLIED FAMILIES FROM COLONIAL DAYS TO THE PRESENT TIME, privately printed by Anne Isabel Perry Phillips of Rockdale, Texas, in 1933, one Jane Shirley (Sherley) of Indiana, (1790-1840), is given as the wife of James Perry, second son of John Perry. James Perry was born in 1786 in Greenbrier County, Virginia. He removed to Scott County, Kentucky, in the late 1790's and married Jane in 1807, and later served in the War of 1812 in the 6th Regiment (Barbour's) Kentucky Militia and in the 13th (Gray's) Kentucky Militia as an Ensign. (See records in the National Archives in Washington, D. C.)

Mrs. Ethelyn Roberson, Box 705, The Superior Oil Co. House #3, Chickasha, Oklahoma, wrote in February, 1958, on the sixth of the month, the following: "...I have two Shirley lines. One is in Kentucky but my clues are vague. My other Shirley line as far as I have it "back" originates in Darlington County, South Carolina. My mother gave me much material about them, and I have also found them in the census records....

James Shirley, born 1795, moved into North Carolina for a while as the 1850 Census shows some of his children were born in North Carolina. My grandmother, his youngest child, Sarah Shirley was born in North Carolina in 1839. James then moved to Pike County, Alabama in 1842, where he died. His mother, Prudence, a widow 80 years old, was living yet in Pike County, Alabama, in 1850.

Mrs. Frank Betts, 1706 Buckner St., Shreveport, La. (in 1941) was also a grandaughter of James Shirley thru Hampton, the eldest son of James. Hampton was educated to be a lawyer and taught school after moving from N. C. or S. C. to Ala. His youngest daughter, Sarah (Mrs. Betts) was an English teacher at Murfreesboro, Tenn., and also in Ala. and La...

I have never learned where the Shirleys from Darlington Dist. first came from. Mother did say James married Winifred Johnston and she understood the Johnstons were Dutch from Pa. Winifred's mother died at her birth and Winifred was reared by an aunt named Unity Faircloth. I can only find the Faircloths in N. C., but don't know if James Shirley found Winifred in N. C. or not.

I have corresponded with Miss Roberta Wakefield who is editor of the NATIONAL GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY QUARTERLY. She is of a Wakefield line that married into a Shirley family. I think hers were from Anderson County, S. C. and Abbeville Co. She wrote that her great grandfather Hezekiah Wakefield married Elizabeth Shirley in Abbeville--Anderson County, S. C. Elizabeth was the daughter of John and Elizabeth Barmore Shirley. He had either brothers or nephews (I think nephews who went to Indiana, at least 3)...

I find Ezekiel Shirley and William Shirley in Scott Co., Ky. in 1800 census (tax records). I am about to believe perhaps Ezekiel Shirley is related to my Ezekiel Shirley Wakefield whose mother was a Shirley.

There were six Sherleys in Barren County, one in Pulaski Co., one in Clark County, and one in Jefferson County, Kentucky, in 1800..all together eleven families...."

Mrs. Mary Lou Hudson, 298 Garfield St., Ashland, Oregon, wrote November 28, 1955, that her grandfather, Perry Orville Shirley, was born February 5, 1862 near Monmouth, Oregon and died July 20, 1934, and is buried in Medford, Oregon. He had married Sarah Anna Boone, born 1860, near Salem, Oregon; she was the daughter of William Wirter Boone and his wife Mary Elizabeth McReynolds. Perry Orville Shirley was the son of Ezekial Allen Shirley and Mary Turner Roundtree.

Mrs. H. E. Dalton, R. F. D. #1, Carrollton, Missouri, wrote the following on September 25, 1960, to these eight SHIRLEY searchers who had at various times had queries in THE GENEALOGICAL HELPER: 1) Mrs. L. L. Pankhauser, Box 236, Madison Kansas; 2) Mr. J. Hobart Bartlett, 67 Elkwood Ave., New Providence, N. J.; 3) the writer of this compilation; 4) Clara A. McIntosh, 1003 Kaster Road, St. Helena, Oregon; 5) Mrs. R. G. Murrie, 3601 Gorman, Waco, Texas; 6) Vera B. Farnes, 6201 So. Broadway, Littleton, Colorado; 7) Mrs. Keith Greenhalgh, 238 No. 5th St., E., St. Anthony, Idaho; and 8) Mrs. Ethelynde Roberson, P. O. Box 705, Chickasha, Oklahoma.

"...CALEB SHIRLEY, my great, great grandfather Shirley, came to Carroll County, Missouri around 1839 and was from Tennessee, so an old history of our county says. This I am beginning to doubt as I recently took some information from the 1850 census of Carroll County, Missouri, and notice that one of his children was born in Indiana in 1839; so I am beginning to believe that it was from Indiana that he came to Missouri....the 1850 census shows:

CALEB SHIRLEY...62years of age...born in South Carolina
Phoebe, his wife...50 years of age...bron in North Carolina

Marion Shirley...19 years of age born in Indiana (m. a Smith)
Daniel Shirley...24 years of age born in Kentucky (m. a Crowley)
Luke Shirley...11 years of age born in Indiana (b. 1839)
Ruth Shirley...9 years of age born in Missouri (m. a Chapman or Chatman)
James S. Shirley...3 years of age born in Mo. (m. Amanda James Cochran).

I know he had three other children and they were probably married, as I know my great grandmother, Melinda Shirley, married in 1840. Melinda Shirley, 29 in 1850 census, married Josiah Goodson in 1840; in 1850 census they had these children: Ellen J. 9; Margaret 6; Caleb 7; Phoebe Ann 2; Appalonia 4 months and later they had Matilda.
Henry--married Mary A. ? and I believe they removed to Oregon around 1870.
Mary J.--married John A. Miller and I believe they also moved to Oregon around 1870....."

Mrs. Dalton wrote on October 6, 1960, as follows:

"...I have just written a long, detailed letter to a Mr. Shirley in Adair County, Kentucky, who I think is a descendant of Colonel Warfield Shirley of the War of 1812. Colonel Warfield Shirley married Patsy Young and was the father of 9 children, one of whom was Mary Ann SHIRLEY who married Edmund Walker; another was John Warfield Shirley who married Jane Walker in Adair Co., Kentucky.. Mary Ann Shirley and Edmund Walker migrated to my area of Missouri and have many descendants living in this county."

On September 3, 1961, Mrs. Dalton wrote, as follows:

"...Two weeks ago yesterday while on my way up to Carrollton, Kentucky, I stopped at Georgetown, Kentucky, a few minutes before the County Clerk's office closed and thought I'd take a quick look for information...about Jane Shirley Perry. It was closing time--almost--and no one had time to show me where things were but after spending 10 minutes trying to find the marriage records I was told that all the old marriage records were burned up about 1880. Then I asked for the Will Books, thinking it would be easier to find an old will than to run down deed records in the five minutes I had left. So, I climbed up to the ceiling on a high ladder four times and pulled down old dusty will books, and believe it or not, in the fourth book I found there was the Will of your Jane Shirley Perry's father! I did not have time to copy it for you as it was a bit long, but I did beg for just enough time to take from it the names...here are the heirs mentioned:

Son, William, who must have been about 15 or so.
'My other children were mentioned as being--

Nancy Smith Edward Shirley Malinda Roark, his wife's Betsey Wright Jane Perry daughter
Dully Shirley (I saw this name DULLY in two places and in both it looked the same.)

ARGE SHIRLEY--was his name--Jane Shirley Perry's father. His wife's name was Esther..so she must be the Easther Shirley I found in the census records and sent to you.

I failed in my haste to get the date of the Will, but do know that it is recorded in Will Book D, Page 340 and believe it was made around 1835 but I could be wrong about that date.

Here is another Shirley family who lived in Scott County, Kentucky, and whose will was recorded in either Book A or B--and this William Shirley might have been a brother of your Arge Shirley as they both lived in the same area.

Will dated March 25, 1805--William Shirley--wife was Margaret Shirley. Children were, Robert Shirley, Rebecca Shirley, William Shirley, Rickard Shirley, John Shirley, and Mrs. Charles (Sarah Shirley) Johnson. The will witnessed by John and Walter Rodes.

...I finally found the marriage of my Caleb and Phoebe Gibbons Shirley recorded in the records of Barren County, Kentucky, at [illegible], even found the marriage bond and the name of Phoebe's parents and the name of Caleb's mother, but not his father...

Here are some Shirley marriages which I noted in Gallatin County, across, Kentucky, files and which might be relatives of [illegible] County and is on the way to Indiana where so many of the Shirleys seem to have left that part of Kentucky and gone to Indiana:

F. W. Shirley married Mettie [illegible], 1839;
George W. Shirley married Mary [illegible]. Thompson, 1841;
[illegible] Shirley married Emma Swango, 1830...."

Mrs. Dalton wrote on September 15, 1961, as follows:

"Thanks for your letter of September 13, 1961, which I received today and in which you gave me the name of Miss Lorraine Shirley, Professor of English, Texas Christian University, Fort Worth, Texas, who has written a brief history of the SHIRLEY family...."

Mrs. Dick Tilton, St. David, Arizona, wrote on August 20, 1962, "...my mother was a Shirley...I have a copy of a SHIRLEY FAMILY HISTORY, compiled by Katherine Dailey, granddaughter of Mary A. "Polly" Shirley Dailey. It is a brief mimeographed copy. My mother is Rosa Shirley, daughter of Oliver Silas Shirley (1844-1928). Oliver Silas Shirley was the son of Silas G. Shirley (1806-1895), born in Bonnesboro, Kentucky. Silas G. Shirley was the son of Charles Shirley, b. 1772, Boonesboro, Ky.; d. abt. 1796 in Missouri. Lucinda was widowed before 1870, and possibly shortly after her son was born. Her whereabouts in 1860 are not known to me at present. Her second husband is buried in the Genoa Cemetery, in southeastern Wayne Co., IA; this town is just north of western Putnam County, MO.

This couple has not been researched by me.

d. 30 Nov. 1895, Putnam Co., MO
bd. Union Church Cemetery, Sherman Twp., Putnam Co.

Information pertaining to vital statistics has been gleaned from the obituary index of the Putnam County Library; those of Joseph and his wife are dated 4 Dec. 1895 and 8 May 1912. Joseph's middle initial is from his daughter Etta's obituary. Joseph and Sarah moved to Putnam County in 1858 with brother Samuel and sister Rebecca. These brothers and Rebecca's husband all went to Indiana in 1861 to volunteer their service, returning in 1868. In June of 1869 he wrote to his cousin in Indiana and closed by asking that letters be directed to the Genoa (Monroe Twp., Wayne Co., IA) roadway; as he spoke of land a mile and one-half from St. John (western Sherman Twp., Putnam Co., MO -- but slightly over five miles southwest of Genoa), it is quite possible that he was actually living in Missouri at the time and receiving his mail in Iowa. The family belonged to the Union Christian Church until moving into Unionville, but Sarah Ann had been "converted" at the Abneas Creek Baptist Church in Hendricks County in 1868. Joseph's death in 1895 was caused by "consumption." I do not at present have contact with this branch of the family, and so can add little in the way of "personal" sketches.

d. 25 Aug. 1935, Putnam Co.
bd. Unionville Cem., Unionville, MO

In 1900 he was living in Unionville and working as a saleman; in 1910 was living in Wilson Twp. and working as a blacksmith. In 1912 he was living at Cherryvale, NM, where his youngest son died in the influenza epidemic of 1918. The family apparently moved to Unionville, the county seat, around the mid-1880s.

2-2. Mary Jane   b.c. 1858, IN
m. Abner L. Meeker, 2 Dec. 1875, Putnam Co., MO
d. before 1900

Mary Jane had been listed as a teacher in the 1880 census. She is presumed to have died before 1900, as in that census her mother reported only four of her children living at the time (#'s 1,3,4 & 6).

2-3. James Alva ("Jim")   b. 17 April 1861, "near Indianapolis"
m. Mary Ann Morgan, 2 July 1880, Putnam Co., MO
d. 31 Oct. 1935, Putnam Co., MO
bd. Union Church Cem., Sherman Twp., Putnam Co., MO

James was a blacksmith. His son Oscar was born at Goshen, in Mercer County, on July 6, 1889, but James moved to Unionville in 1892 after his last son was born in Putnam County on Nov. 23, 1891. He married, secondly, Elizabeth Allie Frost on Sept. 18, 1894. His first wife and his eldest son Joseph Lee died of "consumption," while his youngest son died of whooping cough as an infant. Two other children by the first marriage have not been identified. Three of five children by the second marriage survived to adulthood.

2-4. Rebecca Angeline   b. 29 June 1865, Hendricks Co., IN m.(1) George Washington Pearson, 22 May 1880, Putnam Co., MO m.(2) Harlan O. Williams, c. 1885
d. 7 Oct. 1909, Newtown, MO
bd. Newtown Cem., Sullivan Co., MO

Rebecca's first husband died June 25th, 1933, so it is assumed that their marriage ended in either a divorce or an annulment. He was a carpenter, and had had children from a previous marriage. Harlan was a laborer for the railroad, and they were living in Putnam County's Medicine Township (near Lucerne) where the Chicago, Milwaukee & St.

Paul RR passed at the time of the 1900 Census. They must have moved almost immediately, however, because Rebecca's obituary noted that she had lived at Newtown "ten years or so" when she died of "consumption" in 1909. Harlan was living in Sullivan County's Clay Twp. in 1910, but had departed for Tama, Iowa in 1913. Their eldest son was a railroad telegrapher who probably moved with his father. A daughter, Myrtle Anna, married Rev. James P. Wilson within three months of her mother's death. He was the minister of the Newtown Baptist Church and the publisher of the Newtown "Chronicle." They later lived in Trenton, Princeton and Cainsville, but apparently did not have contact with Mercer County cousins.

2-6. Etta Evelyn b. 16 Oct. 1870, Sherman Twp., Putnam County, MO
m. Ora D. ("Ode") Cook, 1 Dec. 1889, Putnam Co., MO
d. 12 July 1953, Putnam Co., MO
bd. Unionville Cem., Putnam Co.

Etta lived her life in Putnam County except for "a few months on a farm near Princeton." As her nephew Oscar was said to have been born at Goshen in 1889, this would seem to indicate that the family left Sherman Township about that time to try farming land near the family of the late Samuel Shirley, Joseph's brother. This may have been a last effort to farm successfully, as several took up the blacksmith's trade upon returning to Putnam County at Unionville.

2-7. Amanda A. b.c. 1874
d.c. 1892, Putnam Co., MO

Information on the approximate date of death comes from notes on the family history made in recent years by her cousin-once-removed, Gertrude Shirley.

3. Rebecca D. ("Bett") b.c. 15 Dec. 1835, Hendricks Co.
m. William Hunter, 10 May 1860
d. 29 Mar. 1879, aged 43y, 3m, 14d

They had no children of their own, but took in (E)utoka Williams, niece of Bett's sister-in-law Mahala Jane Shirley, after Utoka's mother died and her father remarried. In 1880, Bill Hunter is shown as head of the household in the Census, with his widowed sister Lucinda keeping house and Eutoka listed as adopted. Who says the "blended" family is a product of modern times? Later Mr. Hunter remarried to Sarah Jane Wolfe, who treated Utoka meanly and perhaps helped bring about her marriage at an early age to Thomas Clark, son of Levi Clark (who was later married to Lucinda Shirley, former wife of Frank Carter) and his first wife Lavina Dunn.

(see p.4, Samuel's wife)

b. 10 May 1837, Hendricks Co.

bd. Goshen Cem., Harrison Twp., Mercer Co., MO

This couple and their eldest son are shown living in Putnam County, Missouri in the 1860 U.S. Census. At that time the township was called Breckenridge. We may assume that Nancy had died by that time, and that Mary F. was not yet born. Samuel served with the 29th Indiana Infantry during the Civil War, and was discharged on 15 May 1865 after service in Tennessee in 1864-65. Family lore has it that he suffered from measles and other illnesses during the war and spent the remainder of his life crippled with lung problems to the point that he could not sleep indoors because to do so left him short of breath. Accordingly, the family lived in Iowa during the summer and Warsaw, Missouri during the winter (where it was somewhat temperate during the coldest months), moving each Spring and Fall by wagon. Even in winter, Samuel slept in the wagon while the family slept in a rented house. The truth is probably that he had tuberculosis, and could not share sleeping quarters with his family for fear of infecting them. I base this on the fact that his brother Joseph had TB, along with several members of his family. Mahala's family moved east of Goshen, in Mercer County, around 1873, and it is possible that the Samuel Shirley family followed them there in an attempt to care for Samuel, who --although he is buried there-- would have lived there for less than three years before his death. The Shirley land adjoined the Riley Williams land (her father's), all being in Section 36 of Range 25 West, Township 65 North. After Samuel's death, when eldest son William Riley was married to Margaret Slover and their first child was a year old, widow Mahala Jane "scandalized" them by marrying Margaret's widowed father, Raleigh D. Slover, and having a last child of their own --born less than a month before William R. and Margaret's second child. This Slover boy was thus a double uncle to the Shirley girl of the same age! It is noted that Raleigh Slover joined the Goshen Christian Church about this time, and it may be that the closeness of the Shirley, Williams and Slover families was as much as anything due to their common church. Samuel Shirley is buried at Goshen Church (as is his wife, but under her last married name, Slover), the Putnam County Shirleys first belonged to a Christian Church and the Williams family were among the pillars of this church (having, however, been Baptists in Indiana).

4-1. William Riley b. 28 Nov. 1857, Gentry Co., MO, near Albany
m. Margaret Loretta Slover, 22 Feb. 1880, at Goshen, MO
d. 9 Oct. 1939, Lindley Twp., Mercer Co., MO
bd. Bethel Cem., Lindley Twp.

Will Shirley moved from the Goshen area to Lindley Township in order to have land of his own to farm. His sister-in-law Pernita (Slover) Larason, wife of George Mahlon Larason since 1875, had earlier moved to the Adel area and was, through her husband, the source of this new opportunity. The Will Shirleys had lived near the High Point M.P. Church, the children attending the High Point School. About 1898 they moved to the Saline neighborhood. It may be presumed that these moves, first west and then northwest of Goshen, removed the family even further from the origins of the family in Putnam County and Wayne County. Will Shirley had been responsible for earning a living for his father's family in the last years of Samuel's life, which he did by clerking in stores and even by prizefighting. His approach to life in his mature years appears to have been heavily influenced by the experience of hard times.

Will Shirley was a shrewd farmer who lived modestly and reinvested his profits in his farm. Unlike many of his neighbors, he was not often hurt by what we know today as recessions and tight money. He was a lender rather than a borrower, and while others might lose their land to him through foreclosure it was unlikely that the same fate would ever befall him. Given the uncertainties of the times, this was a regular or even cyclical occurance, and it meant that while others were leaving the farm and moving to the cities in search of work, the W.R. Shirley family was able to survive the lean years and stay on the land. The conservative principles of farm management did, nevertheless, have their effect upon the home life of the family. Will did not see the necessity of the automobile for some time, and when he finally purchased a car he made it clear that it was for his use only -- not for the use of his son (who first drove at age forty!) and certainly not for his daughters. Above all, the family could not lose sight of its dependence on the land; no "frills" were welcome or would be tolerated. Will and Maggie lived full lives but stayed close to their neighbors and family. Daughter Gertrude Shirley continued this tradition, and lived in her parents' home until Fall, 1980. Since the turn of the century, the family has been associated with the Bethel M.E. Church, now the Bethel United Methodist Church. Many family members are buried in the church cemetery.

m. James Alonzo ("Lon") Larason
d. 20 Sept. 1884
bd. Goshen Cem., Harrison Twp.

Her husband was a brother of George Larason of the Adel neighborhood of Mercer County; George was married to Will Shirley's sister-in-law. After Mary's death, J.A. married secondly Sedotha Melton and lived near Mt. Moriah, in Harrison County, MO. Their family was said to be living near Modena in Dec. 1902.

m. Harriet Weston, June 1884
d. 13 May 1920, Harrisburg, CO
bd. Girdner Addition of Princeton Cem., Princeton, MO

According to one account, he moved to Putnam County at age four, and to Mercer County at age ten. This may reflect the order of residence correctly, if not the dates. Rastus and Hattie were living in the Adel neighborhood in 1896. Their children attended the Cavanaugh School. The family moved to Watonga, Oklahoma in the Fall of 1907, but were back in the county living five miles southeast of Princeton in 1912. In 1915, Rastus became the local agent for Overland automobiles, along with Dr. F.R. Fullerton. Apparently this was not successful, for the Shirleys left for Colorado around 1918. Hattie moved to Denver after the death of her husband, and was again married, in March of 1929, this time to William H. Black.

Despite his entry into automobile dealership, Rastus had been an active farmer. A newspaper item after his return from Oklahoma notes that he built a barn with a cement foundation and remodelled the house in which they were living. When he "quit farming" for the automobile business in October of 1914, he listed the following assets in his auction notice: a farm (to be rented), five head of horses, 37 head of cattle (mostly "white faces"), 48 head of hogs (Poland Chinas), and the usual set of farm implements. The farm was one mile west of Powell Chapel, southeast of Princeton.

m. John William Slover, 26 Nov.

1885
d. 30 Aug. 1907
bd. Bethel Cemetery, Lindley Twp., Mercer Co., MO

John Slover was a nephew of Lovey's sister-in-law Margaret Slover Shirley, and also a grandson of Lovey's step-father Raleigh Duncan Slover. John and Lovey lived in Lindley Township about four miles northeast of Saline, MO. In addition to farming, he served as a road overseer for the township. When Lovey died as a result of complications arising from the birth of their seventh child (who died also, at birth, a day earlier), John was so overcome with grief that he had to be physically restrained from suicide. He had attempted to consume chloroform and carbolic acid. During the funeral daughter Nellie repeatedly fainted. John left to live in Yuma, Colorado in 1916. He and his wife are buried with their unnamed infant in the Bethel Cemetery.

m.(1) Etta Lee Malone, Feb. 1892
m.(2) Anna Malinda Henderson, 1904
d. 25 July 1948, Nevada, Vernon Co., MO
bd. Newton Cem., Nevada, MO

John married Etta after she came back to Mercer County on a visit from her parents' home in Oklahoma. Etta was a niece of John's sister-in-law Margaret Slover Shirley, being the daughter of Mitchell and Martha Clementine (Slover) Malone. She died in May of 1899, and is buried in the Goshen Cemetery, as she and John had lived near there. At first there was no headstone, but one was placed later in the approximate location (on the basis of the relationship of the gravesite to a nearby tree). Grandmother Mahala Jane raised their two daughters until they went to Oklahoma to be with their Malone grandmother. John, meanwhile, had married the much younger Annie Henderson and had moved to Nevada, Missouri by the summer of 1900. They had four children of their own, and were living in St. Clair County from at least 1905 to 1915, returning to Vernon County near Schell City by 1918.

A LINE FROM EDWARD III, KING OF ENGLAND, TO PIERCE J. KNISS

Compiled by Frederic P. Van Duzee

May 1973

1. Edward III, King of England, 1327-1377, born Windsor, 13 Nov. 1312, died Richmond, 21 June 1377; married York, 24 Jan. 1328, Philippa of Hainult, born 1312, died 15 Aug. 1369. He was a son of Edward II, a grandson of Edward I, and a 30th generation descendant of Cerdic, King of the West Saxons, 519-534. Weis, Ancestral Roots, (1950), Line 1-30.

2. Edmund de Langley, first Duke of York, was fifth son of Edward III by Philippa of Hainault. He was born at King's Langley, Hertfordshire, 5 June 1341, and died there 1 Aug. 1402. In 1372 he married Isabel of Castile, who was second daughter of Pedro the Cruel, and who died 3 Nov. 1393. Dictionary of National Biography, XI-550.

3. Richard, Earl of Cambridge, was second son of Edmund de Langley by Isabel of Castile. He married Anne, born 27 Dec. 1388, daughter of Roger (VI) de Mortimer and granddaughter of Lionel, Duke of Clarence; and by her was father of Richard, Duke of York, and of Isabel. He was executed 5 Aug. 1415. DNB, XIII-1043, XVI-1061.

4. Henry Bourchier, Earl of Essex, was the son of Sir William Bourchier, Earl of Eu, and Anne, daughter of Thomas of Woodstock, Duke of Gloucester, seventh son of Edward III, and Eleanor, elder daughter of Humphrey (X) de Bohun. He married Isabel, daughter of Richard, Earl of Cambridge, and aunt of Edward IV. He died 4 April 1483. DNB, II-918, XIX-637.

5. William Bourchier, eldest son of Henry Bourchier, Earl of Essex, married 1466, Anne Woodville, third daughter of Richard, first Earl Rivers, who died 1469. DNB, II-918, XXI-887.

6. John Devereux, Lord Ferrers, of Chartley, Staffordshire, was the son of Sir Walter Devereux, who married the heiress of Lord Ferrers of Chartley and was summoned to the House of Lords by that title. He married Cecily, daughter of William Bourchier and Anne Woodville. He died 1501. DNB, V-893.

7. Walter Devereux, first Viscount Hereford, son of John, Lord Ferrers, and Cecily Bourchier, was born before 1490. He died 27 Sept. 1558. By his first wife Mary, daughter of Thomas Grey, Marquis of Dorset, he had two sons and a daughter. DNB, V-893.

8. Richard Devereux, eldest son of Walter Devereux and Mary Grey, died 1547, leaving his eldest son Walter and other children. He had married Dorothy, daughter of George Hastings, Earl of Huntingdon. DNB, V-893.

9. Walter Devereux, first Earl of Essex and second Viscount Hereford, was born 1541, elder son of Sir Richard Devereux and his wife Dorothy Hastings. He died 22 Sept. 1576, aged 35. About 1561 he married Lettice, eldest daughter of Sir Francis Knollys, K. G. DNB, V-893.

10. Robert Devereux, second Earl of Essex, eldest son of Walter Devereux, first earl, by his wife Lettice Knollys, was born 19 Nov. 1566 at Netherwood, Herefordshire, and beheaded 25 Feb. 1601. In 1590 he married Frances Walsingham, widow of Sir Philip Sidney. DNB, V-875.

11. Sir Henry Shirley, second baronet, son of Sir George Shirley, created a baronet in 1611 on the institution of the order, and Frances, daughter of Henry, Lord Berkeley, died 8 Feb. 1632/3. On 1 Aug. 1616 he married Dorothy, youngest daughter of Robert Devereux, second Earl of Essex. She was born about 20 Dec. 1600 and died 30 Mar. 1636. DNB, V-889; Burke's Peerage, (1963), p. 938.

12. Sir Robert Shirley, fourth baronet, was born in 1629. He was the second son of Sir Henry Shirley, of Ettington in Warwickshire, and of Staunton Harold in Leicestershire. In 1646, on the death of his brother, Sir Charles, he succeeded to the baronetcy and estates under the wardship of his uncle, the Earl of Essex. Almost immediately, contrary to the advice of his guardian and family, he married Katherine, daughter of Humphrey Okeover, of Okeover, Staffordshire. He was a zealous Royalist, who was committed several times to the Tower for engaging in conspiracies against the Commonwealth. There he died on 28 Nov. 1656, not, however, without suspicion of poison. Two sons, Seymour and Robert, and two daughters survived him. DNB, XVIII-137; Burke's Peerage (1963), p. 938.

13. Sir Robert Shirley, seventh baronet, first Earl Ferrers, previously a knight, second son of Sir Robert Shirley, fourth baronet, was baptised 20 Oct. 1650. This gentleman, being grandson and heir of Lady Dorothy Devereux, the younger of the two sisters and heirs of Robert Devereux, last Earl of Essex of that family, and the issue of the elder sister becoming extinct, Charles II was graciously pleased, 14 Dec. 1677, to terminate the abeyance of the ancient barony of Ferrers of Chartley in his favor, which, with other baronies, had been in abeyance since the decease of the above-mentioned last Earl of Essex. Lord Ferrers was of the privy councils of King William and Queen Anne, and was created by the latter sovereign, 3 Sepr. 1711, Viscount Tamworth of co. Stafford and Earl Ferrers. He married first 28 Dec. 1671 Elizabeth, daughter and heir of Laurence Washington, of Garsden, Wiltshire. She died 2 Oct. 1693 after bearing ten sons and seven daughters. He married second Aug. 1699 Selina, daughter of George Finch of the city of London, by whom he had four sons and four daughters. He died 25 Dec. 1717, and she died 20 Mar. 1762. Burke's Peerage (1963), p. 938.

14. Walter Shirley, eighth son of Sir Robert Shirley and Elizabeth Washington, was born at Staunton Harold 27 May 1690. Although said to have died young, he was evidently the man by that name who died in Frederick Co., Va., in the latter part of 1755. His will, dated 10 July 1755, mentions his eldest son Walter, his sons Jarvis and James, his youngest son Robert, and his daughters Sarah and Dorcas. A codicil dated 11 Aug. 1755 mentions his wife Dorcas and his friend and brother Francis Avis. In passing, it is noted that each of his four sons named a daughter Elizabeth. Shirley, Stemmata Shirleiana (1873), p. 167; Bates, The Story of Smithfield (Middleway), Jefferson County, W. Va. (1958), pp. 55-64 (second pagination).

15. James Shirley (~~16C~~), born about 1735, died about 1785, married Mary. Children: John (~~22C~~), moved to Decatur Tp., Brown Co., Ohio. Robert (~~23C~~), was said to have moved to Kentucky, 1822, (the move was actually within Ohio); James (~~24C~~), remained in Virginia; Timothy ~~(25C)~~, moved to the vicinity of Maysville, Ky.; Mary ~~(26C)~~; Elizabeth ~~(27C)~~. Bates, Story of Smithfield, etc.

16. Robert Shirley ~~(25C)~~, married in Frederick Co., Va., 28 Jan. 1791, Rachel Gilbert, daughter of Nathan and Elizabeth Gilbert, sister of William and Elias. He died in Williams Co., Ohio, in 1836.

In Ross Co., Ohio, on 3 Aug. 1815, Hester Shirley married Pierce Taylor. In the spring election of 1816 Robert Shirley was elected one of the trustees of Union Tp., Ross Co., Ohio. The 1820 Ohio census shows only two Shirley households, that of Abiather in Huron Co. in the northern part of the state at a considerable distance from Ross Co., and that of James in Ross Co. This James very probably was James ~~(8C)~~, son of Walter Jr., who moved to Chillicothe, Ohio. It seems almost certain that in 1820 the census taker missed Robert and his family, because they were still there in 1822 when they packed up and left on the three week journey to Fort Defiance in Williams Co., Ohio. This move is described on pages 201-3 of History of Defiance Co., Ohio (1883) as part of a very interesting account, "Recollections of Pioneer Life in the Maumee Valley", written by Mrs. Ruth Austin, youngest daughter of Robert Shirley. She mentions the given names of her parents and of most of her brothers and sisters, but not that of Hester, perhaps because at the time Hester married and left the family home she was a grown-up young lady of about twenty, while Ruth was only four. Of course, Hester may have been a daughter of James Shirley, but it seems far more likely that she was Robert's daughter, as in the 1830 and 1840 Ohio censuses the Robert Shirley Jr. and Pierce Taylor families are found living as neighbors, first in Defiance Tp., Williams Co., and then in Brown Tp., Paulding Co. In either case it is reasonably sure that she was a great-granddaughter of the immigrant ancestor. It is interesting to note that in the Robert Shirley family the first son was named for the wife's father, and the next son for the husband's father. Then the next son was named for a brother of the wife, and the next for the husband. Bates, Story of Smithfield, etc.; Frederick Co., Va., Marriage Register No. 1, p. 149; Berkeley Co., Va., Will Book 1, p. 417; Williams Co., Ohio, Probate Court Case No. 51; History of Ross and Highland Cos., Ohio (1880) p.263; Ross Co., Ohio Marriage Book, Vol. AB, p. 255.

17. Pierce Taylor, son of Isaac and Mary Taylor, was born in Ohio Co., Va., about 1791, and probably about 1801 went with his parents to Ohio. He married Hester Shirley in Ross Co., Ohio, on 3 Aug. 1815. In 1828 Pierce and his family moved to Defiance, Williams Co., Ohio. The 1830 census of Defiance Tp., Williams Co., Ohio, shows the household of Pierce Taylor with 1 male 30-39, 2 females 5-9, 2 females 10-14, and 1 female 30-39. Hester probably died about 1835, as she is not mentioned in the will of Robert Shirley dated 25 Jan. 1836. Ross Co., Ohio, Marriage Book, Vol. AB, p. 255; Census Records; Van Duzee, Kniss and Allied Families (1965), p.3.

18. Jacob Kniss, born about 1806, died at Defiance, Ohio, July 1848. He married at Defiance 12 Jan. 1835 Minerva Shirley Taylor, daughter of Pierce Taylor and Hester Shirley, born near Chillicothe, Ohio, 7 Nov. 1816. She died at Luverne, Minn., 6 May 1903. Van Duzee, Kniss and Allied Families, (1965), p. 2; Williams Co., Ohio, Marriage Records, Vol. 1, p. 94.

19. Pierce Jacob Kniss (first named Jacob Pierce Kniss), second son of Jacob Kniss and Minerva Shirley Taylor, was born, at Defiance, Ohio, 16 Nov. 1839. He died at Luverne, Minn., 19 Dec. 1896. He married at Kilbourn City, now Wisconsin Dells, Sauk Co., Wis., 6 April 1870, Minerva Ann Donaldson. Van Duzee, Kniss and Allied Families, (1965). pp. 8-13.

THE DALES & SHIRLEYS

Recently while working on this line I came across a few bits and pieces:

In the list of Isaac Dales children it says Elizabeth Dale married Nimrod Shirley, son of James Shirley.

A descendant of Jane Shirley who married William Dale (brother of Nancy Dale who married Moses Shirley) says Jane is the daughter of James Shirley and wife Mary McMekin and that MARY IS THE 2ND WIFE OF JAMES.

Another correspondent has Nancy Eliz. Dale born 1779 in Shenandoah Co. Va. as daughter of Isaac Dale and Margaret Tillman.

Any comments would be apreciated from this group of Shirleys!

John Beals sent me a letter asking about a letter he just received from the Dale Library asking for Dale info and promoting a book sale on the Dale Family. I placed a call to Dr. Donald Dale and we chatted for about 45 min.

This is a sincere group and one I think I can recommend to any Shirley-Dale connections....

If you would like more information write me, at the Association address.

David Shirley, former head of UT chemistry branch, dies

Dr. David A. Shirley, head of the University of Tennessee's chemistry department in Knoxville from 1962 until his retirement in 1979, died of cancer Thursday morning at UT Hospital.

Shirley, 69, was a Knoxville native. He earned bachelor's and master's degrees from UT. He had been a member of the UT faculty for 26 years and was nationally recognized for research in organic chemistry.

Shirley earned his doctorate from Iowa State University in 1943, and was a research chemist for Du Pont. Before joining the UT faculty in 1953, he was a professor at Tulane University in New Orleans.

"The department moved tremendously under Dr. Shirley's leadership," said Dr. Gleb Mamantov, who succeeded Shirley as department head in 1979. "He was an outstanding administrator and an extremely good organic chemist who was nationally recognized in the field.

"Most importantly, he was quite a human being," Mamantov said.

During Shirley's tenure, the chemistry department grew from a relatively small unit to a department with more than 30 full-time professors and thousands of dollars in research contracts, Mamantov said.

Shirley wrote two books and had more than 75 scientific articles published. He also was active locally and nationally in the American Chemical Society.

Shirley received a chancellor's Citation for Extraordinary Service to UT in 1979 and the Distinguished Service Award from the UT chapter of Phi Beta Kappa in 1983. A plaque honoring Shirley hangs in the new Hodges Library on the campus.

Dr. David A. Shirley

Shirley was recognized by "Who's Who in America" and made this philosophical observation in the book:

"I view life as an opportunity for a creative and perhaps triumphant effort by an individ against the underlying matrix of tragedy into which we are all born. Among the most lasting of these efforts are our creations in the arts, in literature and in the sciences, but also important is our recognition that in the striving for our goals and in the lessening of our own pain, we should not add to the burden of others."

After his retirement, Shirley contributed money to a fund bearing his name which supports work done by graduate students and young faculty members in the chemistry department.

The family will receive friends from 7 to 9 p.m. Saturday at Mann's Heritage Chapel.

Notes regarding documentation of William DALE and Jane (SHIRLEY) DALE information.

[William b. ca 1770's d ca 1838
Jane b ca 1780's d. ca 1843]

1. Children 1-10 are listed as children and heirs of William DALE in the entry in Deed Book X, Pg 80-81. Note that one child Martha Ann (DALE) MONTGOMERY (#11) was not listed in the deed, apparently because her husband Simpson K. Montgomery was one of the "plaintiffs" in the deed transaction. The marriage record of Martha Ann (DALE) MONTGOMERY is signed by William DALE (who gave permission for his daughter to marry), thus establishing that she was also a daughter.

2. The "old" list of children of Wm DALE and Jane (SHIRLEY) DALE (the undocumented list apparently originating with Mr. Almon DANIELS) was very similar to the list on this family sheet, except -- the old list had no ~~Mary~~ James (#1) and had a Nancy (#12?) ALEXANDER instead of a Mary Alexander. (#4).

3. Individual notes on children:

① James - no info. on him except as follows: he was apparently the administrator of Jane ~~DALE~~ (SHIRLEY) DALE's estate; there is a Barren Co, KY marriage record for James DALE and Katherine FAULKNER (1827).

② Isaac - US. Census 1850 Henry Co., Tenn; 1880 also. Death date from John L. Beals (DALE descendant).

③ William E - US Census 1850 Henry Co, Tenn; 1880 Calloway Co, KY. Death date also from John L. BEALS. Re: name of wife Katherine FISHER OR FULLER -- Henry Co, Tenn. marriage record (1852) for Wm E. ⑤ Leannah (Leander) - [moved to Harrison Co, MO (?)]

⑥ Permelia - most of the info. provided by Katy MATTHEWS (Topeka, KS, 1981) who is the wife of Permelia's descendant.

⑩ Angelina - no documentation of any marriage; listed as "Angeline DALE" in 1880 Census of Calloway Co, KY (Pg 555) [age 58 enumerated with brother Wm. E.]

Re: Squire Dale

Recd from Elwood

Mr. Elwood Shirley
318 Laach Lane
Lexington, KY 40505

Dear Elwood:

Thank you for responding to my Query in the Roots Cellar. I appreciate the information you sent, even though the charts were familiar to me as you suspected. I have researched the Dale, Phillips, Goad and Southern families to some extent, and if you believe I may have anything that would help you let me know what you need.

Enclosed is a copy of a chart made in 1926 by a great uncle of mine. It shows my William Dale b 16 Dec 1783 in Tennessee and states that his mother was Jane Ann Arbuckle. Several of us have searched for years and still do not know who William's father was. William probably had a brother named Squire who was also born in Tennessee on 7 Apr 1793. None of Squire's descendants have been able to identify his father either (at least those that I know about).

On the copies you sent you pointed out that your Isaac Dale had double cousins named Isaac Dale, b 8 Sep 1747 and James Dale b 29 Dec 1754. This James Dale is the most likely prospect for being the one we seek.

James Dale's older brother William Dale had property in Botetourt County, Virginia where many Arbuckles lived. He was in the Rev. War and received a land grant in Washington County, Tennessee in 1782. We have a record showing that a James Dale was appointed overseer of the road from William Dales place.

Enclosed is some data about a portion of the Arbuckle family that is also the most likely to be part of the family of Jane Ann Arbuckle. A resident of KY (prob. Lincoln Co.) was on the same trail I have been researching. I wish I knew who currently has more data about this Arbuckle family.

I am going into detail on this in the hope you may have some additional data, or know someone I should write to who may have family or Bible records. We have researched the books and public records very carefully, and have had a professional genealogist in Tennessee work on it too.

A Self addressed stamped envelope is enclosed for your convenience.

Sincerely,

Dale

Dale Brooke Gerdeman

P.S. There is also a possibility that Isaac Dale, b 8 Sep 1747 married another of the Arbuckle girls.

5-22-1986

Marian and Walt,

Finally, I got the DALE family group sheets copied so I can get the material mailed. I received the DALE sheets from Mrs James DALE of Arcadia CA (address in my letter). Note that sometimes there are two versions of a particular family sheet. I think you have a copy of the DALE family sheets in my line. Those on my own line have more detail on them I believe. Note also that the given names are often repeated (in the same generation and in different generations). Care should be taken in identifying the desired Reuben, Isaac, or Abraham etc. (E.g. - My Isaac DALE b 1751 had a first cousin Isaac b 1747 and my Reuben DALE b 1774 had a cousin Reuben born about the same time).

The DALEs and allied families were in Richmond Co, Va very early. As I marked on one of the family sheets, there was an early marriage (recorded in Northumberland Co, Va - where the large group of Shirleys lived) between a Robert DALE and Elizabeth SHIRLEY. There could have been even earlier connections. The DALEs and SHIRLEYs intermarried prolifically - - generation after generation. Write when you can

Ken Shirley

The son Richard served in the Revolution and received a pension. In the pension file he says that he was born 1 Dec 1759 which is two years later than appears in the Parish Register to the day. He stated that he was born in Richmond Co., Virginia, and moved to Bedford Co. when he was about nine years old.

One James Dale served in Capt. Thomas Buford's Co. raised in Bedford Co. Ref: Burgess - Virginia Soldiers of 1776 (3v.), page 1249.

William Dale, wife Elizabeth. Pension File W9828 (continued)

A family Bible published in 1814 was presented as evidence of marriage and the births of the children of William and Elizabeth. This Bible was returned to some heirs in 1877, but the dates were dopies on the back of one of the letters. The Bible records runs as follows:

William Dale m. Elizabeth Booth 29 July 1789

James B. Dale	b. .. Apr 1790
Sallie	b. 4 Sept 1791
Lewis L.	b. 14 Jan 1796
Fannie	b. 27 Nov 1797
Whitfield	b. 4 Dec 1800
Creath (Jacob)	b. 2 May 1803
William Dale	d. 7 Dec [sic] 1822 [cf. June, above]

There is no "last payment file" for William Dale.

A file does exist for Elizabeth Dale. Her application was finally approved a few days after she died on 3 June 1847 and since she was applying under the Acts of 1843 and 1844, nearly four instalments of $40 were due. The amount distributed to the heirs was $159.89, for one day less than four years.

There are several affidavits on the four leaves of a single folded sheet. One of these states that Timothy R. Dale was the executor of the estate of Elizabeth Dale. His relationship is not given.

Another affidavit states that Elizabeth Dale had been living in Clay Co., Mo., for two years prior to her death. She had previously living in Hancock Co., Illinois. No mention was made of her residence in Woodford Co., Ky. The following heirs are listed:

- James B. Dale
- Sally Boston, late Sally Dale
- Frances Boothe, late Frances Dale
- Whitfield Dale
- Heirs of Lewis L. Dale, deceased
  - George Dale
  - Sarah J. Dale
  - Mary E. Dale
  - Elizabeth Dale
  - Susan Dale
  - Frances Dale
  - John Dale
  - Isabel Dale
- Heirs of Jacob C. Dale, deceased
  - Abraham Dale
  - John Dale
  - William Dale
  - Samuel Dale
  - Elizabeth Dale
  - Sally Dale

— o —

It might be noted that Elizabeth Dale's application of 20 May 1846 was executed in the home of Jacob C. Dale "who lived about five miles from the County Seat". The last payment file gives his relationship to Elizabeth Dale and shows that he died within the intervening year. The 1840 census of Clay Co., Mo., shows that Jacob C. Dale was in the age group 30-40 and had five children under 10 years of age (all sons).

re Robert DALE^5

1) Little is known of Robert^5 of genealogical value.

He was, in his early days, in Woodford County, Ky. It is thought possible that he was born in Va. or N. C.

Family tradition says he was one of 8 children. What is known of him is also "tradition" told by some of his descendants. It is as follows:

He was known as a Baptist Missionary Circuit Rider. It was the custom in the autumn, after the crops were harvested , the butchering done, wheat and corn taken to the mill to be ground for bread and all preparations for the winter done, for these pioneer ministers to fill their saddle pockets with home made medicines, a change of undercloting and a few bare necessities - take their Bible and mount their horse and ride away to do some itinerate preaching.

The means of transportation and communication was very poor and often they would be away many weeks on these preaching missions without any contact with home.

It was on one of these missions that Robert Dale swam his horse across the river° near* Rocheport, Missouri to get to his place of service on the other side. He contracted pneumonia from this exposure and died.

A record in an old and very worn family Bible places him in Woodford County, Ky. where his son was born. This too is recorded in the Bible

An early history on "Baptist Churches in Missouri" makes note of Robert Dale in Baptist Assn. in Boone Co. Mo in 1820.

(8a) Re Reuben DALE^6 (son of Isaac^5) :

Reuben Dale - son of Isaac & Eleanor (1st wife)
Family Tradition:

* "Our great grandfather Dale was quite a character. He and his young wife sold all their earthly possessions in Virginia and walked all the way to Barren County, Ky; bought land - then sold and moved to Hart Co Ky where he died in 1862. They say he had the same fire when he died that he started with on his arrival in Ky."

from a letter by his great grandson
S. R. Dale - March 1927

Was thought to have been in War of 1812 from Va

S. R. Dale says further that Reuben had 3 brothers who followed him to Ky. then moved, 1 to Illinois; 1 to Tenn. and 1 to Texas.
(John)

* Doesn't seem entirely accurate - Another source says he came to Ky. when 21 yrs. old with his father. He was married + owned property in Woodford Co. Ky.

I have not seen any proof that Thomas was Reuben's father. He may be but I would want some verification of it.
